

FINGER PRINTS FORGED, SAYS HALL LAWYER

Declares Husband of Murdered Woman Had More Grounds for Suspicion Than Widow.

MISTRIAL PLEA OF STATE DENIED

Simpson Loses Petition Based on Charge That State Had Been Facing Hostile Jury.

BY FRANK GETTY.
Somerset County Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., December 1.—Deliberate forgery of a fingerprint which is the crux of the state's case against "Willie" Stevens, was charged Wednesday by former Attorney General Robert H. McCarter, chief of the defense counsel, in the first part of a summation during which, with withering sarcasm, explosive outbursts and the astute gestures he made his appeal for acquittal of the defendants in the Hall-Mills murder trial.

Having successfully combated the dramatic attempt of Senator Alexander Simpson to have the court declare a mistrial, because of the alleged hostile attitude of the jury towards the prosecution, the defense, with McCarter as its mouthpiece, launched its summation.

Case for Defense.
His voice, rising at times to a strident shout and prancing about in unbecomingly despite his 67 years, the veteran chief counsel not only turned his bitter sarcasm upon the various witnesses for the state, but by insinuation and at times by direct accusation, stressed these three major points for the defense:

1. The calling card submitted in evidence by the state as that found at the feet of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall's body four years ago not only is not genuine, but it bears a forged print similar, but not identical, with that of "Willie" Stevens' left index finger.

2. James Mills, husband of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, the other murder victim had more grounds for suspicion, more reasons for hatred, more chances for discovery.

Ileana Finds Cadet-Prince On U. S. Visit

Romance of Rumanian Princess Revealed in West Point Trip.

New York, December 1.—(AP)—A fringe of fairy-tale romance is discovered by the New York World in connection with the recent visit of Princess Ileana, of Rumania.

The role of Prince Charming goes to Cadet Lieutenant William J. Glasgow, of Washington, D. C., it says, recounting the first meeting of the couple at a West Point dance soon after the arrival of the Rumanian party here and the "second chapter" when Queen Marie returned to West Point October 25, to review the Cadets and the last—to date—when Ileana came to New York to embark for Paris and Bucharest.

Her application, conveyed second-hand, for permission for Glasgow to come to tea in New York, having been refused by academy officials, the little princess motored to West Point and the third meeting was had.

"Others were present to satisfy the conventions of course," recounts the World, "but they were merely a background. And the next day the princess sailed far, far away."

The Early Bird Catches the Worm

Yes, ma'am; it always has, and likely it always will. And the early Christmas shopper is going to "catch" first choice of all the wonderful array of Christmas merchandise.

You've had that experience a few days before Christmas of being shown something Mrs. Nextdoor bought to give Cousin Jane, and it was just what you wanted for Sister Susan; but when you went to get yours it was gone.

Start right in today on your Christmas shopping, and begin by reading the advertisements in this morning's Constitution. Do your buying before the early shoppers get the very things you want.

You will find new ideas and new suggestions in the advertisements that appear every morning in The Constitution. Read them over carefully and make a memorandum of the articles that interest you.

Defeated 9 to 1, Allen Plans Court Fight on Election

FOREIGN POWERS URGE AID OF U. S. IN CHINESE CRISIS

American Government Declines To Act Hastily, However, and Will Pursue Cautious Policy.

FOOCHOW CONSULS ASK FOR GUNBOATS

London Suggests Huge Naval Demonstration to Impress Chinese; Situation Is Critical.

Washington, December 1.—Strong pressure is being exerted upon the United States by foreign powers for forceful action in the renewed Chinese trouble, but this government declines to act hastily at this time and is pursuing a policy of extreme caution.

It is generally believed that the present critical state of affairs is the most dangerous since the Boxer rebellion, with the tide of anti-foreign sentiment rising throughout China, but the United States will go slow in making any gestures of a military or naval nature.

America Not Willing.
It has been suggested from London that a huge naval demonstration be staged, but the state department shows no sympathy for such a move.

Action at the present time is confined to orders to Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, to furnish warships and marines for protection of American lives and property upon call from American Minister MacMurray or consuls.

The situation at Hankow, now in the hands of revolutionary Cantonese forces from the south, is shown to be serious in official reports reaching here. American residents at Hankow have requested protection in connection with the boycott, and two American destroyers have been rushed from Shanghai to join the three American gunboats at Hankow.

Ships Sent to Foochow.
American war vessels also are believed to be en route to Fuchow. American residents of the city have appealed to MacMurray for protection.

The Hankow situation is complicated because the American consulate is in the Chinese section of the city instead of in the foreign concession. Officials here are anxiously awaiting confirmation of reports that Chinese troops have invaded the Hankow foreign quarter.

If necessary, American marines will be landed at Hankow to protect American lives and property. General Lockhardt considers this necessary. This can be done without special orders from the state department.

CONCILIATION POLICY IS PLANNED BY BRITAIN

London, December 1.—(AP)—The British government is not likely to abandon its policy of conciliation towards China because of the threat situation at Hankow, it was indicated in the house of commons and other government quarters today.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of foreign affairs, informed the house that there was no material change in the situation since Monday, when marines were landed. The threatened general strike against foreigners in Hankow, however, has been set for December 4, and there are possibilities in this attitude of the Chinese.

Only Independent Candidate Overwhelmingly Beaten in Regular City Election on Wednesday.

TO SEEK WARRANTS AGAINST MANAGERS

Despite Appeals of Leaders, Light Vote Was Cast—All Democratic Nominees Elected.

DEFEATED 9 TO 1

Defeated 9 to 1 as an independent candidate in the general election Wednesday, in which the entire regular democratic ticket was elected, Cecil G. Allen announced Wednesday night that he will take out warrants against poll managers in about a score of precincts today and begin at once court action to nullify the election of Dr. P. L. Moon, an alderman from the second ward.

Allen was an independent candidate for alderman from the second ward against the incumbent and primary nominee, Dr. Moon, but managed to muster only 200 ballots against 1,819 to his opponent at the polls.

The warrants will charge, according to the complainant, that election managers declined to accept his ballots, and in some cases discarded stacks of his ballots which he piled on election tables.

Says No Nominees.
Allen further declines to admit that there are nominees in the general election, and objects to the claims of democratic leaders that individuals who run in the primary are nominees at such elections. He was defeated for the post he sought Wednesday in the primary by Dr. Moon by a majority of the votes and unsuccessfully contested the primary election.

J. P. Wall, chairman of the city democratic executive committee, other members of the same body and civic leaders, received news of the polling with expressions of satisfaction because, they claimed, if Allen were elected, the primary system in Georgia would be endangered and the bars would be down for other candidates "to bolt the primary."

Mr. Wall and Mrs. R. L. Turman, president of the Georgia League of Women Voters, Tuesday issued appeals to voters to visit the polls and register their disapproval of Mr. Allen's action in what they termed a "bolting of the primary."

Vote Was Light.
A comparative light vote was polled despite these appeals, but the result of the count, as compiled from unofficial figures by The Constitution, definitely counted Allen out.

The second ward, Allen and Moon's home ward, gave the nominee 174 votes as compared with 54 for the contestant. Allen's greatest show of strength was manifested in the "B" precinct of the first ward, where he polled two votes to Moon's three. The 29 precincts throughout the city, however, gave Moon a large majority.

GEORGIA FARMING CITED TO BANKERS

H. Lane Young Tells Success of Diversifying; Waterways Hailed as Rail Feeders for Crops.

Chicago, December 17.—(AP)—Success of diversified farming in Georgia, economies of water transportation as an aid to farmers and the part of the banker in helping agriculture reach a profitable basis were outlined today to the agricultural commission of the American Bankers' association in annual session here.

Georgia has reduced its cotton acreage by one and three-quarters million acres since 1919, H. Lane Young, of the Citizens and Southern bank, Atlanta, said and has been raising peaches, watermelons, peanuts, sweet potatoes and tobacco and getting a start at dairying on land once planted to cotton.

J. Elwood Cox, president of the Commercial National bank, High Point, N. C., commented on how banks could enable the farmer to carry crops until they could market them at favorable prices.

Waterways were heralded as feeders for railroads rather than transportation rivals by F. C. Dorsey, Liberty Insurance bank, Louisville. Railroads, Dorsey said, rapidly are approaching limits of their capacity. The Mississippi river and its principal tributaries would serve as useful auxiliaries in transportation if properly developed, he asserted, without depriving them of business and with every likelihood of bringing business to a more stable and profitable basis.

U. S. - Philippine Problem Rouses Briton's Sympathy

CADETT SEES ANALOGY WITH BRITAIN IN INDIA

(Editor's Note—Thomas Cadett, of The London Times, is the holder of the Walter Hines Page newspaper fellowship, and is spending a year in America under the terms of the fellowship. He has temporarily joined the staff of The Constitution. Mr. Cadett has served on the staffs of The San Francisco Chronicle and The Chicago Daily News. The Constitution was selected, without his knowledge, as the representative southern newspaper on which he is to serve in getting a national acquaintance with American conditions.)

BY THOMAS CADETT.

The charge of imperialism has so often been leveled against Great Britain that a great deal of unnecessary talking would be avoided did people but realize that an empire is not a thing to be dreamed of, but a thing to be achieved, and that the word is used literally rather than with its present degraded meaning. What else should an empire be but a system of mutual benefit and cooperation between the dominant and the dominated? We have many problems, problems that are inseparable from the conduct of a vast empire that covers one-fifth of the entire world's surface and harbors every kind of man from Mongol to Aryan.

To the British observer, therefore, your Philippine situation cannot fail to be interesting; and although the average American seems to know little and care less about the difficulties of ruling another people, the situation is such that sooner or later you will be forced to the realization that having a subject people entails certain responsibilities.

The Philippine situation bears a remarkable resemblance to the state of affairs that has arisen in India to-day, always assuming that the information at my disposal is correct. It would seem, indeed, that in your dealings with the Filipinos you have flattered British methods by a considerable degree of imitation, both in errors and prudence.

Analogy Fundamental.
The analogy appears to me to be fundamental. India, it must be understood, is not by any means a nation. It is a vast continent composed of many different races, made up of many different peoples. There is as much difference between the Beluchi and the Madrasi as there is between the German and the Italian. Nor does the division end there. Of the 300,000,000 who live in India, about two-thirds are Hindus; the so-called significance of Hinduism lies in the caste system, the most rigid classification of human beings that the world has ever known, and strengthened by century upon century of tradition. The Hindu looks after himself first; then after his family. These two primary considerations having been attended to, his next thought is for his own caste, and finally for his religion. MAN NEAR DEATH AT CITY HOSPITAL FROM KNIFE CUTS

Boy Norton, of Griffin, was taken to Grady hospital late Wednesday afternoon in a dangerous condition with several knife wounds about his arms and back, said to have been received in a fight on Harrison road between Hapeville and College Park.

Norton, barely able to talk, told A. C. Hemperley, East Point undertaker who took him to the hospital, that he had had some difficulty with a man by the name of Gaston.

Norton was taken immediately to the operating room where doctors stated that his condition was serious from loss of blood and deep wounds.

County police investigating the affair had only meager details of the affair late Wednesday and doctors at the hospital would not permit anyone to talk to Norton.

PROSECUTION ENDS OIL CONSPIRACY TRIAL TESTIMONY

Ten-Minute Rehearing of Senator Walsh Today Will Close Conspiracy Case Structure.

SENATOR HARRELD, ROOSEVELT CALLED

Letter of President Harding in Reply to Senate Inquiry Put in Evidence by Defense.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER. (United News Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, December 1.—Except for about 10 minutes of additional evidence to be offered tomorrow the government prosecutors in the Fall-Doherty oil trial have completed their efforts to show that the former secretary of the interior accepted a $100,000 bribe from the millionaire oil man in exchange for lucrative naval oil contracts.

Though the government technically had command of the witnesses put on the stand today, two important points favoring the accused pair came out.

First, Doherty's lawyer, Frank J. Hogan, forced into the record a letter from President Harding to the senate stating that he fully approved of the oil leases in question.

Roosevelt's Testimony.
Second, one of the government's principal witnesses, Theodore Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy, testified that the Honolulu oil storage tank project originated in the war plans division of the navy, that it was customary to keep such war plans secret and that he and navy officials knew the details of the oil exchange proposal, the legality of which is questioned by the prosecution.

But despite these two favorable developments for the defendants, the government prosecutors offered many letters and telegrams showing that time after time Albert B. Fall notified oil companies who inquired that the government had no intention of throwing open its California naval oil reserves. One persistent prospective bidder complained of too much secrecy about the interior department's intentions and was advised by Fall that the Hawaiian plans were "no one's business." All of this was about the time that the first Hawaiian contract was let to Doherty in April, 1922, several months after Fall had received $100,000 from Doherty in the little brown satchel.

The high spots of the government's case are these:

Fall obtained complete control of the naval oil reserves through the Harding

$350,000,000 CUT IN TAXES AT ONCE

Garner To Push Bill for Immediate Reduction Instead of Coolidge Plan; Warm Fight Looms.

Washington, December 1.—(AP)—The breach between republicans and democrats over how to tap the treasury surplus to the best advantage to the taxpayers' pocketbook widened today at the capitol.

This subject virtually excluded all other issues, and drew into the vortex of discussion practically every recognized party leader of the house, where revenue legislation must originate.

House democratic leaders, after a conference, came out in favor of an immediate $350,000,000 cut in tax rates, while republican party chiefs stoutly maintained that they would oppose, as ill-advised, a new revenue bill at the approaching session.

Washington, December 1.—(AP)—Peace advances by regular senate republicans toward insurgents whose votes they will need for organization and control next year have been checked rudely by an act of President Coolidge.

Both Senators Nye and Frazier, of North Dakota, insurgent republicans, to whom definite overtures have been made, are aroused over the president's appointment last week of a United States marshal in their state without consulting them. The two senators said today they had definite assurances that no appointment would be made until they were given an opportunity to make recommendations.

White House Conference.
The affair cut to a climax today when President Coolidge invited Nye to the white house Thursday, for a conference. Nye, it is reported, and if the appointment is not withdrawn will make a fight in the senate against confirmation of the nominee, C. F. Mudgett, of Valley City, North Dakota.

It was learned today that the president's invitation to Nye to confer with him at the white house was the result of intervention by senate republican leaders, who learned that the appointment probably would interfere seriously with their attempts to get the two senators to line up with the party for organization of the senate next year because of the resentment it has caused.

Support of these two senators is essential to the republicans. Should they line up with the democrats in organization it would give the democrats control. If merely declined to vote that would leave Republican chances solely upon support of Senator Shipstead, Minnesota farmer-lawyer member, which would leave a tie for Vice President Dawes to break.

Sensors Aroused.
The two senators are very much wrought up over the incident. It is known that Nye has two letters assuring him that no appointment would be made until he and Frazier were consulted, one from Everett Sanders, Coolidge's secretary, and the other from Attorney General Sargent.

Appointment of Mudgett was made through the influence of L. B. Hanna, who was manager in North Dakota of President Coolidge's campaign in 1924, and who is leader of the republican faction opposed to Nye and Frazier. Hanna is a nephew of the late Mark Hanna.

He conferred with President Coolidge here Tuesday, a week ago, and the appointment was aounced the following day.

Beyond the fact that they were not consulted, both senators said today that the nominee is "personally obnoxious" to them. Usually, the senate in dealing with confirmations does not go further if a senator opposes a nomination of "personally obnoxious," but takes that as sufficient reason to reject.

If merely declined to vote that would leave Republican chances solely upon support of Senator Shipstead, Minnesota farmer-lawyer member, which would leave a tie for Vice President Dawes to break.

Sensors Aroused.
The two senators are very much wrought up over the incident. It is known that Nye has two letters assuring him that no appointment would be made until he and Frazier were consulted, one from Everett Sanders, Coolidge's secretary, and the other from Attorney General Sargent.

Appointment of Mudgett was made through the influence of L. B. Hanna, who was manager in North Dakota of President Coolidge's campaign in 1924, and who is leader of the republican faction opposed to Nye and Frazier. Hanna is a nephew of the late Mark Hanna.

He conferred with President Coolidge here Tuesday, a week ago, and the appointment was aounced the following day.

Beyond the fact that they were not consulted, both senators said today that the nominee is "personally obnoxious" to them. Usually, the senate in dealing with confirmations does not go further if a senator opposes a nomination of "personally obnoxious," but takes that as sufficient reason to reject.

DEMOCRATS SEEK COOLIDGE ACTION MAY BLOCK PEACE IN G. O. P. RANKS

Washington, December 1.—(AP)—Peace advances by regular senate republicans toward insurgents whose votes they will need for organization and control next year have been checked rudely by an act of President Coolidge.

Both Senators Nye and Frazier, of North Dakota, insurgent republicans, to whom definite overtures have been made, are aroused over the president's appointment last week of a United States marshal in their state without consulting them. The two senators said today they had definite assurances that no appointment would be made until they were given an opportunity to make recommendations.

White House Conference.
The affair cut to a climax today when President Coolidge invited Nye to the white house Thursday, for a conference. Nye, it is reported, and if the appointment is not withdrawn will make a fight in the senate against confirmation of the nominee, C. F. Mudgett, of Valley City, North Dakota.

It was learned today that the president's invitation to Nye to confer with him at the white house was the result of intervention by senate republican leaders, who learned that the appointment probably would interfere seriously with their attempts to get the two senators to line up with the party for organization of the senate next year because of the resentment it has caused.

Support of these two senators is essential to the republicans. Should they line up with the democrats in organization it would give the democrats control. If merely declined to vote that would leave Republican chances solely upon support of Senator Shipstead, Minnesota farmer-lawyer member, which would leave a tie for Vice President Dawes to break.

250 TO SOLICIT CITY AD FUNDS

A canvassing body of 250 selected men, formed into a sales organization similar to that of a modern business concern, is being formed by the campaign executive committee for the "Forward Atlanta" $1,000,000 advertising campaign.

RHEUMATISM!

What is it—anyway?

THAT awful agony of swollen joints and inflamed muscles—that miserable pain and torturous suffering, we call rheumatism—what is it?

Here's what it is: It is the result of waste products and impurities in the blood! Impurities that get the upper hand because the system is starving for want of healthy, rich, red blood!

But you just cleanse your blood and build up the red-blood-cells and watch the rheumatism vanish! Why, S. S. S. will aid Nature put so many millions of red-blood-cells in your system that the impurities that cause your rheumatism are driven out—they can't stand pure, healthy blood.

S. S. S. conquers rheumatism! The rich, red, fighting blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build brings ease and comfort to every sore, swollen tissue in your body.

And this great S. S. S. goes right on helping Nature build more and more red cells until your whole body is tingling with life and vibrating with vim, vigor and vitality. You feel like yourself again.

Get S. S. S. right now—build up your blood to where it is pure, red and healthy. S. S. S. is the sure way. All druggists sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

SOLICITORS ACTS IN 'WILSON' ARREST

Fingerprints and photographs of the "Jack Wilson" suspect held by police in St. Marys, Ohio, who believe he is the bandit wanted for the slaying of a young woman, were sent to Pittsburgh by Solicitor General John A. Boykin following notification of the capture. Every effort will be made to determine quickly whether the right man is held, the solicitor said.

Should the fingerprints and pictures support the contention of St. Marys police that they have the right Jack Wilson, Fulton county officers will be notified to turn the man over to the solicitor.

That the arrest of the real "Jack Wilson" of the Cheek case would be a great deal toward causing further postponement of the execution of Neil M. Gore, youth who has been sentenced to die for participation in the robbery which ended in Cheek's death, was the opinion Wednesday of Fulton county authorities on receipt of the message from St. Marys.

News of the arrest came in a telegram from the solicitor to the Fulton county sheriff in cooperation with Mr. Boykin's office.

Accused by his companions as the slayer of Cheek, Wilson, had been sought by police since last December, when the Peachtree road grocer was shot in the presence of his wife and children. Theore Berry and Ruby Ray, alleged accomplices, now are serving sentences for their part in the slaying, and Gore has been sentenced to death for his alleged part in the crime. He has been saved from the electric chair twice by eleventh-hour stays of execution, the last time only a week ago when his counsel suddenly announced that he would appeal the conviction.

Officers of the junior chamber reaffirmed the decision of the organization made a week ago when it called upon the senior organization to continue the national advertising campaign, but on a larger basis by raising $1,000,000 for a three-year campaign.

ACTION EXPECTED SOON ON ALIEN PROPERTY RETURN

Washington, December 1.—(AP)—Quick action on the bill to return alien property was forecast today by Speaker Longworth during a call at the white house. He saw a possibility that the question might be disposed of by Christmas.

The speaker found appropriation bills at a more advanced stage than such measures have ever been on the eve of a congressional session, with prospects of quick passage. As to tax and farm legislation he was not prepared to commit himself.

A measure which he thought would be acted upon is that for increasing the pay of federal judges.

DARING HOLD-UP STAGED ON STREET BY WHITE BANDIT

One of the boldest hold-ups on record was reported to police shortly after dark Wednesday night by a woman, an employee of the Kelly Brothers Grocery company, who stated that he was held up and robbed of $300 about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning on Marietta street, near Foundry street.

Mr. Walker told officers that while he was walking along Marietta street he suddenly saw a man with a pistol into his side and commanded him to hold up his hands. The bandit then reached in his inside coat pocket and took an envelope containing $125 in currency and $25 in checks.

A description of the bandit was furnished Detectives W. D. McGee and M. P. Warren, who were assigned to the case.

Season Ticket Sale For Musical Bureau Series On Saturday

Season ticket sale for the three attractions of the Artist series to be presented during the winter at the city auditorium by the Southern Musical bureau, S. Russell Bridges, president, will open Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Phillips and Ellis streets. It was announced Wednesday by Mr. Bridges.

The three big musical attractions include Feodor Chaliapin and his own opera company, presenting "The Barber of Seville" on Tuesday, December 14; Frieda Hempel, most popular of modern sopranos, on January 14; and Mikhail Mordkin and the Russian ballet, on March 14. Season tickets are at a much lower rate than single performance tickets, and in addition to the advance choice of seats, season purchasers enjoy a saving of approximately one-third, Mr. Bridges said.

In addition to the sale for this series, the sale of tickets for the Tipica orchestra, Mexico's national orchestra, which appears at the auditorium on Tuesday night next, will also open at the same place Saturday.

ATLANTA M. E. CHURCH CONFERENCE BEGINS

The thirtieth session of the Atlanta annual conference convened in the South Atlanta M. E. church Wednesday, with Bishop E. G. Richardson presiding. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by the bishop, assisted by the district superintendent and pastor of the church. The roll was called and most of the pastors answered present. Rev. N. A. Bridges was elected secretary of the conference and Rev. W. B. Wood, statistician. Rev. J. W. Queen, superintendent of the Atlanta district, read his annual report, which showed increases along all lines of church activity.

Dr. C. M. Melden, ex-president of Clark university, presented, Rev. E. M. Jones, of the board of pensions and relief, gave helpful information concerning this board. Bishop Richardson was called to the city on business and asked Dr. J. N. C. Coggins, pastor of the Mount Calvary M. E. church, New York city, to preside over the statistical session.

Rev. R. T. Jackson read his report as superintendent of the Rome district. He reported progress in many of the churches.

Dr. Luther P. Lovejoy, a representative of the church, spoke on the principles of Christian stewardship. He urged each member and friend of the conference to observe this principle, as the only means of meeting the needs of the church and the world.

Bishop B. E. Jones was not able to preside over the first day's session because of the illness of his wife. He will be present Thursday morning. The conference was closed by members and friends and general conference officers.

TECH R. O. T. C. NAVAL RESERVES TO DRILL

Mrs. Mead will speak Monday morning to the Evangelical Ministers' association at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

Actress Asks $500,000 Balm In Love Suit

Pittsburgh, December 1.—(AP)—Miss Anne Caldwell, New York musical revue actress, testifying today in federal court in her $500,000 suit for breach of promise against John W. Hubbard, wealthy Pittsburgh manufacturer and clubman, said Hubbard told her she was "a girl in a thousand" and asked her to become his wife while they sat "in a large dreamy room filled with palms, flowers and potted plants."

The proposal, which Miss Caldwell charged Hubbard later repudiated, was made in an Atlantic City hotel in January, 1922, she said, and added that he told her then they would not be married immediately, explaining that he had a young daughter who would be married soon. Hubbard told her she was "a girl in a thousand" and asked her to become his wife while they sat "in a large dreamy room filled with palms, flowers and potted plants."

Before testimony in the case was started a supplemental statement of claim was admitted in which Miss Caldwell charged Hubbard with seduction.

A number of love letters which Miss Caldwell identified as having received from Hubbard during their courtship were read to the jury while she was on the stand. The letters which were signed "Jackie" contained endearing terms and made numerous reference to "good times" and "parties."

CLUB BOYS RAISE BANNER YIELDS COTTON AND CORN

Dawson, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Boys who have been members of the cotton and corn clubs of Terrell county will gather in the auditorium of the courthouse Saturday at 10 o'clock for the purpose of hearing the state club agent, G. V. Cunningham, who will be the principal speaker at the meeting.

Immediately after Cunningham speaks the winners of prizes will be announced and prizes awarded accordingly.

There are 54 members of the Cotton club this year, and according to A. E. Gibson, the average production was 562 1-2 pounds of lint cotton per acre on a grand total of 30,629 pounds at a cost of 11 cents a pound. The Corn club members numbered 16 and reported an average yield of nearly 80 bushels of corn on a total of approximately 1,000 bushels of corn produced by the boys at a cost of slightly less than 40 cents per bushel.

CHANGES DRAFTED IN PRESBYTERIAN MARRIAGE LAWS

Chicago, December 1.—The Presbyterian general council has decided to refer a proposal to amend the church's marriage and divorce laws to a committee which will make its report here next March. Another committee, investigating the status of women in the church, will make its report at the same time.

Dr. Clark MacCartney, of Philadelphia; Dr. William R. Taylor of Philadelphia; and Dr. Charles R. Reiman, of Princeton, N. J., will investigate the advisability of amending the divorce and marriage laws.

ROTARY IMPRESSED WITH MORGAN TALK

Rotarians of Atlanta were discussing Wednesday the talk made at the Tuesday luncheon by Dr. Henry A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee and one of the leading economists of the south. John K. Siefert, governor of the Georgia district of Rotary International, also gave a brief talk at the luncheon.

Dr. Morgan's talk was devoted principally to the spreading of Georgia resources. He pointed out that Atlanta's selling territory extends beyond the boundaries of the state, and said the state's development should not be confined, but spread into other states as well.

Andrews' Boast Of Dry Success Amuses Diners

New York, December 1.—(AP)—In its account of a prohibition debate before a thousand representative New Yorkers at the dinner of the Economic club at the Hotel Astor last night, the New York Herald Tribune says today:

"The diners laughed derisively when General Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, announced that a 'stop had been put' to the illegal distribution of sacramental wine. This demonstration drew from General Andrews a tart promise to make it 'hard to get a drink of real beer next season.'"

"If that's of any interest to you," added the Tribune, "can grimly when the roar of laughter subsided."

SHERIFF FREED IN JONES TRIAL

Gray, Ga., December 1.—(AP)—Sheriff J. Clarke Middlebrooks, of Jones county, who faced impeachment trial here for two days in Jones county superior court, was exonerated of all charges this morning by the jury that heard the evidence.

"It bears out my contention that this proceeding was instigated by enemies I have made in the rightful conduct of my duties as sheriff," Middlebrooks declared after the verdict had been announced. He was congratulated by large numbers of friends, who had gathered expecting a verdict early in the day.

The effort to oust Middlebrooks was instituted by Elton Wilkinson, alleged moonshiner, who at one time was arrested by the sheriff on suspicion in connection with the slaying from ambush over a year ago of two Jones county policemen after they had raided a still. The grand jury of two months ago favored airing of the charges, and thus brought the matter to speedy trial.

The state cannot appeal the case, under a ruling of Judge James B. Park at the outset, which established it as a quasi-criminal proceeding.

The case went to the jury shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday, after arguments of counsel and the charge by Judge Park had occupied the greater part of the afternoon. The sheriff himself was the only witness for the defense. He took the stand and denied, one by one, every allegation brought against him by the host of witnesses testifying for the state.

Middlebrooks, convicted in the United States district court at Macon over a year ago of conspiring to violate the prohibition law and sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary, is under bond pending appeal and has continued to serve as sheriff of this county.

The case against him in federal court developed after he had made extensive investigation into the whiskey traffic in Jones county in connection with the double murder, and the principal witnesses against him were men he had arrested in connection with this crime. They swore they had paid him money and whiskey in return for protection while making whiskey. Two of their number, Grover and Atkinson Etheridge, are under life sentence after conviction of murder charges in connection with the case. The others were released for want of evidence.

Local Coal Price Drops $1 Per Ton Dealers Announce

Smaller shipments of coal to England, where a fuel strike has virtually ended and elimination of exportations through the Great Lakes on account of an ice blockade, Wednesday caused coal prices in Atlanta to drop $1 per ton, according to announcements by a number of dealers.

High grades of domestic coal can now be secured for $8.50 and $9 a ton, with correspondingly lower prices on the cheaper grades of run of mine, slack and steam coal for industrial purposes.

How long the cut of $1 per ton will remain effective is not known, particularly as a reduction in price at this time of the year is most unusual.

ENGINEERS TO HEAR EXPERT ON TRAFFIC

"Traffic Control by Color Signals" will be discussed Friday night by K. W. Mackall, nationally known traffic engineer, before the Atlanta section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers' meeting in the chemistry building of the Georgia School of Technology. The announcement was made by C. E. Bennett, manager of the electrical department of the Georgia Railway and Power company.

Mr. Mackall is considered an authority on modern traffic problems and his appearance here is expected to bring out a large number of engineers. Invitations to attend the lecture have been extended to Mayor Sims and members of the general council, as well as the Atlanta Safety council, the Atlanta Motor club, the Chamber of Commerce and a number of technical societies in Atlanta.

BODE, MALONEY NAMED TO DIRECT SURETY GROUP

L. W. Bode, representing the Fidelity and Deposit company, of Baltimore, was elected president of the Security association, of Atlanta, at the annual meeting Wednesday at the Ansley hotel. Other officers chosen were Frank Maloney, representing the Fidelity and Casualty company, of New York, vice president, and Cyril Dieter, representing the Royal Indemnity company, secretary and treasurer.

Matters of interest to bonding companies were discussed and conditions in the southeast analyzed. The consensus of opinion was that a most satisfactory business season is in prospect.

The organization holds monthly meetings and its purpose is in part to add to opportunities afforded for discussion of matters of mutual interest, meetings will serve as opportunities to hear from visiting executives of various companies.

MAN IS WOUNDED WHEN HE RESISTS NEGRO BANDITS

Coolly expressing his preference to being shot rather than robbed, A. Trapp, of 288 Hunter street, S. E., was shot and slightly wounded by two negro highwaymen late Tuesday night. The bullet took effect in his head, grazing the scalp and rendering him temporarily unconscious. When he recovered he found he had been robbed of $10.

He was treated at Grady hospital and dismissed, doctors saying that the wound was slight. An immediate search of the neighborhood was made by Call Officers M. D. Cartwright and L. P. Higgins, but no trace of the hold-up men were found.

CHAMBER ELECTS SEVEN DIRECTORS

Results in the election of eight new directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce were announced Wednesday.

day by the election committee, of which George A. Delbert is chairman and C. A. Kuller, W. H. Butler and Harry J. Lindig are committeemen.

The new directors, who will serve for a term of two years, include Philip H. Alston, Frank L. Butler, W. H. Glenn, George S. Harris, Francis E. Kamper, Robert S. Parker and Robert Strickland. Another Atlantaan, elected to the board, declined for business reasons to accept the position, which will be filled by the board.

Fitzhugh Knox, Jr., president of the Junior Chamber for 1926, will also serve as director during 1927. Members of the board whose terms extend for another year include Milton W. Bell, Julian V. Boehm, Eugene R. Black, C. C. Bowden, William Chandler, J. B. Kennedy, George W. West and Cator Woolford.

SOUTH WINS WHITE TRUCK NATIONAL SALES CONTEST

Presentation of the national sales contest trophy of the White Truck company to the southern regional sales organization on Friday will be attended by President Walter C. White and Vice President and General Manager Thomas H. White, according to news received Wednesday by Saunders Jones, of Atlanta, vice president of the company.

Led by Vice President Jones, the south won first place over four other regional divisions in delivering the largest percentage of White trucks and buses above the quota for July, August and September, making the second time the southern region has won the prize in a year.

A "victory dinner" will be given at the Piedmont Driving club Friday night, after which the trophy will be presented by President White. Among the guests will be the following vice presidents of the company: Martin A. O'Mara, of New York; George P. Russell, of Chicago; Newell Lyon, of St. Louis; Perry S. Fay, of Boston, and George Gunn and Jay Rathbun, of Cleveland.

Other guests will include Robert W. Woodruff, of Atlanta, a director, Mrs. Woodruff, and Mrs. Beverly DuBose, sister of Vice President Jones, and managers of White offices in the southern region.

The New Orleans office won the branch trophy in this year's contest as well as last year's, it was announced.

the great majority of the third that remains, and they, although there is no caste system, hold to their religion and work for their co-religionists with a fervor and an intensity hardly to be equaled by members of any other creed.

There is, in fact, no national unity whatever in India; which may explain a little how it is that 70,000 white troops maintain order in a country of 300,000,000 people, the majority of whom are primitive and illiterate. Now when the soldier had finished with India we gave the country all the things that follow in the train by "pax Britannica," that is to say, a stable and honest administration, railways, good roads, hospitals, protection for every man to live a peaceful life—unknown for centuries before our arrival—hygiene and, most important of all, education when and where possible.

Most of the inhabitants of India are Aryans, members of the same type of humanity to which we belong. Many of them are remarkably intelligent, and those who have availed themselves of the education offered have proved the presence of often brilliant members of the professions, especially so in the law, the practice of medicine, and in certain administrative positions. But knowledge of their own capacity has blinded many of them to their limitations, and so the cry, almost amounting to a shout, since they are extremely vociferous, has arisen for independence.

Unsettled to Govern.
The whole truth of the matter is that they are utterly unsuited to govern themselves. The Indian politician may or may not be a high-souled patriot; the one thing certain is that they have so taken to political intrigue and the heady business of catchwords that they have lost sight of hard facts in academic theory. Liberty is one thing; independence is another. Under British rule they have a large measure of liberty; with independence would come the complete negation of liberty which was the only settled feature of Indian history until our arrival.

It would be sheer hypocrisy to pretend that we conquered India in a spirit of altruism; nor for that matter can I recall a single case where one nation has conquered another under the impulse of brotherly love. But having taken the place, we gave them of our best, and in spite of many grievous errors, British rule in India stands foursquare to the winds of inquiry as an honest attempt to improve the condition of its people.

Moreover, the average Indian—the term is used for convenience alone, since it has no ethnological significance—has a horror of responsibility. As subordinates they are painstaking and can be relied upon to follow any set of rules to the last letter. But of initiative, of the capacity to ignore the rules or adapt themselves to unusual circumstances they have none. I cannot pretend to any sort of close knowledge of Philippine affairs, but from the general outlines of the situation it seems evident that precisely the same circumstances have produced problems similar to those afforded by India to us. At the moment, America is still too preoccupied with her own affairs to give any serious attention to the results of a piece of absent-minded annexation. But, as I have said, the time will come when events, as well as the noisy insistence of a few native politicians, will produce the necessity for some sort of decision. How you will meet it is not easy to see; but at least you will have the sympathy and interest of a nation not unacquainted with similar problems.

PROSECUTION ENDS IN OIL CONSPIRACY

ing executive officer transferring jurisdiction to him.

Doherty advanced him $100,000, a transaction which Fall sought to conceal by trying to mislead the senate investigating committee.

Five months later, while Fall was throwing competing contracts off guard, he directed the execution of the first Pearl Harbor contract giving Doherty the right to build storage tanks for the navy in exchange for naval royalty crude oil. This contract contained a preferential clause under which Doherty, the following

December, obtained the big Elk Hills drilling contract which he told the senate committee should return him a profit of $100,000,000. Contracts were in consideration of the $100,000 advanced to Fall by Doherty, it was charged.

Already by cross-examination the defense has shaped the general outlines of its defense which will be filled in as its witnesses begin to testify tomorrow. The high spots of the defense case are:

Points of Defense.
Fall acted only as the business agent for the navy in letting the contracts and did nothing until the navy's approval was obtained.

Fall accepted the $100,000 from Doherty at a time when he thought he was about to retire to private life and before the big contracts had been negotiated, his retirement plans having been upset at the personal request of Harding.

Doherty undertook the Hawaiian storage tank project upon the earnest request of navy officials who said the country faced a Pacific war menace and must have ample fuel at Honolulu for the navy.

Counsel and jurors all showed the tiring effects of Tuesday's night session so none was held tonight. The trial is moving so rapidly that it should be over before Christmas. It is resorting to evening sittings. Society women are beginning to find the trial an attractive diversion from bridge.

One group of fur-coated ladies were admitted by the door man ahead of a line of ordinary would-be spectators.

"When do we get in?" one man in the line protested.

"This party was arranged for yesterday," the guard replied, closing the courtroom door in the man's face. During short recesses the women flocked out into the main courthouse corridor to smoke cigarettes.

The prosecution has used about 30 witnesses. The defense expects to use about 50. The trial has run seven days and probably is at least one-third over.

Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy was called by the government today, the end of the day. His direct testimony was brief and general. He said that he did not discuss the leases with Secretary of the Navy Denby prior to their execution.

On cross-examination, Hogan asked: "Where were the plans for the Pearl Harbor storage tanks originated?"

"In the war plans division of the navy department," Roosevelt answered. "Did the plan for enlarging these tanks later also originate in the navy department?"

"Yes."

"Was Pearl Harbor considered strategically important and was it considered vital to have a reserve supply of fuel oil there?"

"Yes."

The government called Edwin Booth, solicitor of the interior department under Fall.

Was the oil exchange proposal submitted to you? government Prosecutor Roberts asked.

"No," Booth replied.

"Were the contracts submitted to you as the legal officer of the interior department?"

"No."

"Questioned on Contracts.
"Did you know of these contracts?" asked Wilton J. Lambert, Fall's lawyer.

"No."

"Was there any reason why they should be submitted to you?"

"Not unless Secretary Fall ordered it."

J. W. Clark, Leadville, Colo., attorney, had written Fall two months before Doherty got his first Hawaiian contract asking if there was any intention of leasing navy oil reserves as he had clients who wanted to bid.

Fall replied that the reserves were being handled entirely by his department and that they were not being thrown open except where it was necessary to put down offset wells to prevent drainage by private drillers on adjoining tracts. This reply was adjusting of many put into evidence by the government.

Two months before the first Hawaiian contract was made with Doherty the Chicago Bridge and Metal Works wired Secretary Fall that it understood the interior department had invited a selected list of bidders to submit bids privately for the Pearl Harbor project.

Work Not Advertised.
"This work has not been advertised and has been handled with the utmost secrecy," the company wired. "We sent a representative to Washington, who was refused a set of plans and specifications, and we are winning this protest, urging that immediate steps be taken to postpone the opening of bids on this work and the awarding of the contract until other reputable contractors may be given an opportunity to prepare and submit bids."

Fall replied: "You are informed that neither this department nor the navy department have solicited privately or otherwise bids from any construction companies whatsoever for any oil storage construction at Pearl Harbor or elsewhere. Under the law, we are simply compelled to deal directly with oil producers for exchange of crude oil for fuel oil, including storage. Several oil companies have been bidding under the law. No publicity has been given, as we regard it no one's business, particularly as it involves military and naval plans. We cannot entertain your protest, nor is same or any criticism warranted."

Senator Harrell Testifies.
Senator Harrell, Oklahoma republican, was called and testified to a letter he had written about the same time inquiring if bids were to be asked.

Fall replied that he was acting as the agent of the navy, where details must be obtained.

Oil men testified that about this time Fall was persuading them to stop drilling, to check overproduction of oil in the California field.

The defense inserted the Harding message to the senate in the record while E. C. Finney, assistant secretary of the interior, was testifying. Hogan presented a copy of the message and Finney said he had collaborated in preparing the data on which the document was based. Harding's message was not read to the jury, but Hogan said he will read it as part of the defense case.

Harding sent the message June 7, 1922, in reply to the La Follette resolution which ordered the Teapot Dome investigation.

"I think it is only fair to say that the policy which has been adopted by the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior in dealing with these matters was submitted to me prior to the adoption thereof, and the policy decided upon and the subsequent acts have at all times had my entire approval."

Senator Walsh, of Montana, who was prosecutor of the senate oil committee, will be the last witness for the prosecution tomorrow. His reexamination will consume about ten minutes.

1 DEAD, 2 INJURED IN TRAFFIC CRASHES

tors, especially speeders, has been launched by city and county forces, the drive to continue through the Christmas holidays, when the heaviest traffic of the year is on Atlanta streets.

Floyd McCurdy, of 514 Atwood avenue, 14-year-old student at Joe Brown Junior High school, was struck down and seriously injured Wednesday morning by an automobile driven by Mrs. F. B. Johnson, of 1607 Gordon street. The accident occurred when the boy ran in front of the automobile to catch a truck, according to Policeman Claud Carroll, who was near the scene.

Both Police Chief James L. Beavers and Solicitor John A. Boykin, issued warnings to drivers and pedestrians concerning traffic violations and urged cooperation with police force in checking accidents. Both deplored the toll of accidents in Atlanta and Fulton county.

Attempt to Kill.
"The supreme court has held that reckless disregard of human life is equivalent to an attempt to kill," Solicitor Boykin said Wednesday in commenting on the epidemic of accidents. "Whenjuries impose penalties for murder or for intent to murder upon speeding and reckless automobile drivers a great step will have been taken toward eliminating the evil."

The matter is squarely up to the jury, and thus to the public. This office will develop all cases of death or injury by automobiles as if they were murder or assault with intent to murder. It is then, with the jury to impose the penalty."

He declared that reckless disregard for human life has been held by the supreme court to be a felony, and conviction on such cases. He said that the reckless driver should be regarded as a menace and a potential murderer.

Guard Against "Flu"
With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Parents Asked To Aid Chief Beavers Also Issued a Statement

in which he urged parents to cooperate with the police department in an effort to curb automobile accidents. Both parents and teachers should begin at once an intensive drive to teach children to be careful in walking across streets. He pointed out that in the two accidents which claimed children's lives Monday and Tuesday drivers in both cases were absolved of blame, and he declared that this is often the case because the child has not been taught properly how to conduct himself in traffic.

In the accident which injured the McCurdy boy, Mrs. Johnson was exonerated of blame by eyewitnesses to the accident. A companion of young McCurdy told police that the boy started across the street behind a milk wagon and saw a speeling coal truck approaching. He darted to the opposite side of the street and was struck, the companion added.

Young McCurdy's condition was reported serious by attendants at Grady hospital when he was taken there. He is believed to have a fractured skull and other injuries. The boy was unconscious when he was carried to the hospital.

Mrs. Johnson became hysterical after the accident and was given medical attention. Later she signed a bond of $1,000 on a charge of reckless driving. The accident occurred less than 24 hours after the death from auto accident injuries of two other children.

TRAIN CRASH VICTIMS ARE STILL PUNKDOWN

The names of the two men who were found Tuesday night in a dying condition near the Marietta bridge on the Western and Atlantic railroad at Howell crossing Wednesday still are unknown despite efforts of police to learn something about them.

The bodies are at the funeral parlors of Harry G. Poole awaiting identification.

Apparently 23 years of age, the two victims were roughly dressed, and each carried a razor, soap, comb and a towel. Police expressed the opinion that the men were "heating" their way to Florida when struck down by a train.

During the afternoon E. L. Nix, of 508 Central avenue, called at the Poole undertaking parlors and partially identified the eldest man as Carl E. Vickers. He stated that he last saw Vickers at Camp Gordon, in 1919, working in the baking shop at the camp.

Mr. Nix also stated that the man he knew was Vickers and another man by the name of Ed Tamm, who lived beyond Decatur, married sisters, but he could not remember their names.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary cough or chest cold, and it is also a splendid remedy for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaracola, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist—(adv.)

MANLEY MAY LOSE $25,000 POLICY

Charging that W. D. Manley, president of the defunct Bankers Trust company, gave false answers in 1920 when examined for life insurance, the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company Wednesday filed suit in United States district court in an effort to have a $25,000 policy held by Manley declared null and void upon the return of accrued premiums.

Judge Samuel H. Sibley signed an order allowing the premiums, amounting to $2,194.15, to be deposited with the court until a hearing on the petition. Manley has 20 days in which to file an answer to the insurance company's petition, and the hearing is to be held 60 days from the time the answer is filed.

In the suit filed against Manley and his wife, Mrs. Valeria R. Manley, the insurance company alleges that Manley, in answer to questions of examiners, stated that he had never suffered from nervous disorders or mental derangement prior to that time, 1920, and that while on trial recently in Fulton superior court, Manley pleaded insanity, defense counsel introducing testimony to show that he suffered from nervous and mental disorders since 1913 or 1914.

The policy is of the non-cancellable type and cannot be voided except in the instance of fraud or false statements made in connection with the application and examination. Carrying a death benefit of $25,000, the policy provides for payment of $1,000 a month for total disability. Bryan & Middlebrooks filed the petition for plaintiffs.

FREIGHT DEPOTS TO CLOSE AT NOON ON SATURDAYS

Freight depots of all railroads entering Atlanta will be closed at noon on Saturdays throughout the entire year instead of during the summer months, according to a decision rendered Wednesday by the state public service commission.

The commission granted a petition filed by the depot employees which was supported by virtually all the large shippers and receivers of freight in Atlanta.

In their petition employees contended that the half-holiday on Saturday is needed for them to transact personal business and to finish up records for the week. It was contended that employees must remain on duty several hours after depots are closed on Saturdays to finish up work accumulated during the week.

CONDEMNED MAN PLEADS FOR LIFE

The state prison commission Wednesday afternoon took under advisement a petition for commutation of the death sentence imposed on J. A. Swain, of Macon, whose plea for a new trial was recently denied by the supreme court.

Swain's case was presented to the commission by W. O. Cooper, of Macon; Eugene Talmadge, of Macon; and Judge J. R. Terrell, of Greenville. Clemency was opposed by Solicitor General Charles Garrett, of Macon, who presented a petition signed by nine of the grand jurors protesting against commutation.

Swain has not been resentenced since the supreme court denied him a new trial. He was convicted during the summer of the killing of J. Walter Johnson following an argument which took place on the streets of Macon.

WANT OGLETHORPE CAR FARE REDUCED

A concerted move by citizens in the vicinity of Oglethorpe university to have street car fares from that section into Atlanta reduced to seven cents will be launched immediately, it was announced Wednesday.

This decision was made at a meeting of the Brookhaven Boosters club Wednesday night when it was decided to hold a joint meeting with members of the Highland View and Piedmont road civic clubs within the next few days to consider just what measures should be taken in furtherance of the plan.

Dr. S. V. Wall was elected president of the Brookhaven club at the Tuesday night session. Other officers were named as follows: S. D. Warren, vice president; and E. D. Allen, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Allen is author of the constitution and by-laws of the club.

Capital City Club Leaders To Attend Funeral of Negro

Faithful service and loyalty for 40 years in his capacity as servant at the Capital City club, will be honored at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the funeral services of Sam Ware, aged negro, which will be attended in a body by a group of officers and former officers of the club.

Sam Ware was the first servant employed by the Capital City club when it was organized 40 years ago. For a time he was the club's only servant, but as it grew, more were added and Sam was placed in charge of the force. He was known and loved by all members of the club, among whom are some of the foremost citizens of the south.

About nine years ago Sam suffered a stroke of paralysis. He was not dropped by the club, but was placed on a pension because of his long and faithful service to the organization. Sam died last Monday and his funeral services will be attended in a body Friday afternoon by all the living presidents of the club and all the living directors and former directors of the organization.

Among the past presidents of the club who will attend the funeral services are: Albert Howell, Jr., Dr. W. S. Elkin, John W. Grant, Robert F. Timine.

Maddox, Sr., E. H. Inman, J. D. Robinson, John S. Cohen, Hugh S. Atkinson, J. W. Goldsmith, Edwin S. Johnson, Thomas H. Daniel and E. H. Martin. The directors will be James L. Dickey, E. Rivers, Macon Martin, W. Carroll Lattimer, W. H. Glenn, W. T. Perskerson, Clark Howell, Jr., J. R. Gray, A. E. Thornton, R. W. Woodruff, Charles L. Ryan, T. J. Peoples, E. R. Austin and W. P. ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 2, 1926.

J. R. HOLLIADAY, Constitution Building, sole advertising manager for all territory outside of Atlanta.

This Constitution is on sale in New York City by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had: Hotelling's News Stand, Broadway and Forty-third street (Times building corner); Schmitt's News Agency, at Bryant Park and Grand Central Depot.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents. Receipts given for subscription payments not in accordance with published rates are not authorized; also not responsible for subscription payments until received at office of publication.

HEARTENING.
The decision of Judge Hoehling, in the district court at Washington, to admit for jury consideration the sworn testimony taken in the Fall-Doherty congressional investigation, is heartening and will go a far way in arresting the tendency in this country to defeat justice through legal technicalities.

Had this testimony been excluded the government would have been seriously handicapped in presenting its case, and these defendants, who had fought against jury trial successfully for three years, would very probably have been victors again in escaping penalization for what appears to have been one of the most glaring criminal conspiracies associated with government administration in the history of America.

In an interview in The Constitution of Wednesday, former secretary of the navy, Josephus Daniels, a visitor in Atlanta for a day, said: "It sometimes seems that technically dominated lawyers and judges act as if courts were created to make it easy for rich or influential criminals to escape conviction. The exclusion of evidence that gives light to juries seeking to do their duty by straining at obsolete technicalities has permitted as many miscarriages of justice as sickly sentimental juries who are overcome by lacrimose lawyers, whose copious tears are measured by the size of the fees they receive."

Just so. Time and again we have referred to the defeating of justice through the many loopholes of the law, through our system of appeals, and through judicial weakness and flexibility.

It is refreshing to find a judge who has the courage to interpret the law in the interest of justice to all concerned, and who is not guided by the dangerous court precedent of "passing the buck."

MUNICIPAL BAND.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce makes official announcement of the organization of a Municipal Concert band which will provide for the people of this city free Sunday afternoon concerts of a high and inspiring type. President W. D. Hoffman is one of its most enthusiastic supporters. He believes it will take rank with the famous municipal bands boasted by many other cities and prove of immense value to Atlanta at home and abroad.

The band is directed by John A. Scharf, widely-known musician, and Andrew Jones is the business manager.

Its management proposes to give a popular concert at the auditorium next Sunday afternoon and every alternate Sunday through the winter, on the days when the Atlanta Symphony orchestra is not playing at the Grand.

Sunday entertainments in Atlanta, even of the most innocent character, have often been frowned upon by the ministry, but the ministers who have been consulted about these concerts have been enthusiastically in their favor. It has been decided to add the religious touch by inviting some prominent minister to speak at each concert, in the intermission, and for the program next Sunday—Dr. W. H. Faust, pastor of the Gordon Street Baptist church, will be the speaker.

This is a most excellent movement and deserves the hearty support of the people. The only expense connected with it is the pay for the musicians for two hours during each concert, which will amount to about $165. This will be paid by some of the enterprising business houses that recognize the value of proper Sunday afternoon entertainment.

The Municipal Concert band is not the same organization as the Atlanta Police band. The former is made up of 36 well-trained musicians, all or most of them professionals, drawn from various orchestras in the city. They do not expect a profit, but only to pay expenses, and as no admittance fee will be charged the management is asking the support of various business institutions.

ARBOR DAY.

Friday, December 3, is national Arbor day. It will be generally observed in Georgia.

Miss Alice Baxter, state chairman of forestry, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, has requested the 12 congressional districts in the state to observe the same by planting a tree in each district in honor of Governor Clifford Walker, during whose administration the state forestry law was enacted.

Mrs. Oscar Palmour, of College Park, president of the Fifth District, G. F. W. C., has arranged an interesting program to be conducted Friday afternoon in the hall of representatives, state capitol, after which a tree will be planted in the capitol grounds. These exercises should be largely attended.

Georgia took a forward step when a constructive state forestry law was enacted. It means a definite policy not only in fire prevention and conservation but in scientific reforestation, and in modern economic methods of timbering.

Our forests are among our most priceless natural resources, and it is regrettable that we neglected them so long, leaving them to the mercy of crude and ruthless commercialism.

KEEP IT GOING.

The campaign to raise a fund of $1,000,000 to cover a "forward Atlanta" advertising program extending over three years, deserves hearty support. That it will be conducted by the same committee that so successfully waged the $250,000 advertising campaign one year ago, with William Candler, chairman, is evidence sufficient that the undertaking will meet with the enthusiastic success it deserves.

The "forward Atlanta" movement has proven immensely profitable. The money invested in it has paid big dividends, for Atlanta's industrial pay rolls have been greatly augmented, her population increased at a new high rate record, her business houses, warehouses, offices and other interests largely expanded—all due in a marked degree to the campaign of nation-wide advertising conducted under the committee's auspices.

With such a splendid record as has already been made, and with the established cumulative principle in advertising kept in mind, it would be a serious mistake to let this advertising campaign stop.

WILSON TO CONTEST.

Former Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, will contest the election of William S. Vare to the United States senate for that state provided the records, upon which he will base his contentions, are not destroyed. The thing that is now worrying the Pennsylvania democrat, who ran a surprisingly close race in a rock-ribbed republican state is how to keep the records from being destroyed.

Due to the Pennsylvania election law the situation is peculiar. Under the state law the records of one election must be destroyed before another election is held, and unless Mr. Wilson finds some way to impound the records before a state election is held in November, 1927, he will not be able to rely on them for a contest in the 70th congress convening in December of that year.

There is a possibility that the senate campaign funds investigating committee, which has been the busiest congressional group ever employed in recess work, may subpoena the ballots and other records since that committee is empowered to investigate elections as well as primary expenditures.

At any rate it is entirely possible that Vare will not be seated. And if so, that he will find the same fate awaiting him that befell Senator Newberry, of Michigan, who appears to have been a piker in spending campaign funds as compared to Senator-elect Vare.

Another good feature of Queen Marie's visit was that she didn't tell us how to run the country.

Anyway, the bones of the Thanksgiving turkey will hold out till Christmas.

The world forgets. The front page sensation of today will be as dead as the bricks of Ninevah tomorrow.

One of the local singers makes this note of it—

"Thanksgiving Day
Has gone to smash;
From now till Christmas,
Turkey hash!"

Father is fixing to get into his Christmas slippers, and to pay dearly for them.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON.

When I'm feelin' lonesome.
I take my fiddle down
And rattle off a jig tune,
And there's a dance in town!
Oh, when I'm feelin' lonesome
I take my fiddle down.

The winter winds seem singin'
A chorus to the tune,
And when the sun comes out
I glimpse the skies of June.
And I see the witches dancin'
In the Bright Dark of the Moon.

When I'm feelin' lonesome,
I know bright days will be,
For a fiddle and a fire
Are sayin' things to me!
Oh, when I'm feelin' lonesome
I know bright days will be!

A Good Roads Singer.
Now that the poets, who rarely "work the roads" are singing about the need for good ones, there may be better results in various communities.
In this connection the Kansas City
Times quotes from the New Richmond Star:

"I'm tired and want to go to bed,
I just drove to town 'bout an hour ago
In mud clear to my head."

"Everywhere I roam,
Through mud and sand and loam,
You'll always hear me singing this Song: 'Build me a gravel road home.'"

A Cheering Word.
"Never mind how life goes," says the Adams (Ga.) Enterprise, "we've got to live it, provided high prices will let us live till we die. It's the only life we know anything about, anyhow."

The Oaks Await the Winter.
Slowly diffusing their summer's green attire,
The sturdy oaks confront the winter's cold,
Holding high their torches of flashing fire, Await their foe with sun-bright spears of gold.

A Gift of White and Pink Carnation.
Sweetly perfumed, and dressed in white and pink,
Unvarnished in beauty you make me think,
Some angel, wandering through Paradise, Plucked you, and dropt you from the skies.

The Sun.
In thy glory bedight,
Thou ascendest thy throne,
Through golden gates of Heaven,
The world sees thee come.

—CHARLES W. HUBNER.

The Dying Year.
Here sings one poet who knew how to shut off steam when he had enough.
It is by the Sweet Singer of the Tifton (Ga.) Gazette:

"This year is quickly passing by,
And I admit it with a sigh.
But there is much to talk about, if I have time to live it out.
The weather is extremely fine, and autumn's good enough for mine.
The football troubles that arise may often give them up against the cost of turtlets, fat and nice, may soon be twice the present price.
My little boy won't let me write,
and so I'll quit it for the night."

The Deacon Says.
It's only a fool who expects summer time in winter, and a fool that doesn't let his own fire against winter weather coming on.

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

ARGUMENT.

About the most useless proposition ever introduced into this world for human beings to mull over is an argument.

Argument always takes up time and money always cuts into people's hearts so that after it is all over, both parties leave with hurts—some that never heal.

There is any arguing to be done it ought to be turned over to the lawyers —and they should conduct the business in a small room all alone, with the doors locked. They get paid for arguing and so, therefore, the bad feeling that sometimes results isn't so damaging, for it's a part of the game.

But friends should never argue. Let them have their opinions and stick to them, good or bad, but nothing is gained by rubbing them up against other opinions that aren't congenial.
It's like bringing together a perfectly good cat and a good dog. They don't mix happily, if they are strangers.

When you get into an argument with one for whom you care, and bitter things are said, it takes so very long for the scars to mend. And the scars themselves make you think too much about how they came about.

In most cases where an argument results from a misunderstanding both people are equally wrong, for a misunderstanding itself is all wrong.

The finest thing in the world to say about a friend is that he somehow always understands. That does away with all argument.

Some say never to start an argument that you can't finish. But an argument is never finished!

Minor Musings

After a matrimonial bark has been wrecked, the captain seldom has any trouble getting a second mate.

When there is a showdown in a business institution, somebody generally is shown up.

A vicious tongue requires fighting bravely.

Probably there never was an inveterate smoker who didn't long to spunk a young boy with a cigarette in his mouth.

When a meek man is wronged he contents himself with hoping that some day he will be righted; but when a strong man is wronged he begins planning the same day to do his own righting.

Make your automobile last—and your home first.

It is possible to strain your eyes so badly looking for "easy money," that you will be unable to see a job.

Sometimes a poor "working girl!"
isn't so poor after she has "worked!"
them.

No matter how hard a girl tries to convince her age, she will generally admit that she is old enough to know more than her parents.

The question of the hour: "How much can I get for my old car?"

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN.

The Press.

The Dutch press, according to a writer in the Hague Post, is to be praised for its freedom from sensational accounts of criminal doings, in contrast with the average American paper, which puts such stories habitually in a prominent place. This American practice, the Dutchman thinks, is "criminal in itself" and, in his opinion, responsible for the unparalleled crime conditions in the U. S. A. There are other differences between the continental European press and the American, which the Hollander seems to overlook. In America everybody reads the paper and everybody finds in it something to interest him or her. The American paper much more closely intertwined with the life of the people than the Dutch journal, for instance, with its appeal to the few.
The newspapers in America are of inestimable value also to the man or woman who comes from foreign shores.
They practically lift him into the community and make him part of it. First America staggers and even frightens him, but gradually he begins to learn the language and within a few months the love tribulations of a film star and the vicissitudes of a politician in New York are followed eagerly. And so it is with every phase of life. He is helped along the way in a thousand and one ways by the newspaper.

Tanks.
About ten years ago this month the tanks went into action on the Somme front. They were the first mechanized vehicles, which now seem to have revolutionized modern warfare completely. If we are to judge by the military demonstrations staged in England during the Dominion premier's visit. There were heavy tanks, light tanks, three, two, and even one-man tanks. There were artillery dragons. There were roadless tractors and armoured cars. The general impression produced, according to English papers, was one of bewildering efficiency. They climbed impossible hills with disdain, zig-zagged over the fields, jerked themselves out of three yards deep mud. The whole manoeuvre field, we read, was filled with these weird, prehistoric monsters. What chance would a battalion of infantry have against such inhuman machines?

Porte St. Denis.
The Porte St. Denis, that stands right in the middle of the boulevards and that has been admired as much almost as the Arc de Triumphe is crumbling to pieces under the trembling of the pavement, caused by the heavy traffic. Louis XIV erected it to celebrate his victory over Holland, which was not such a wonderful victory, for the Dutch erected a statue to their leader, for his actions in the same struggle. In those days, 1672, the Porte Saint Denis stood on the margins of Paris, formed part of the wall to be exact. Now it stands in the very center. The boulevards were then yet what their English philological ancestors would have called "wild works." Now there are two rings of exterior boulevards far outside, both dating from different epochs.

Opera Bouffe.
The royalists and fascists in Paris have been belabored each other for months with the vilest and most incredible epithets through their respective papers. Action Francaise and blows. A band of armoured men from the Faisceau raided the office of the other paper and upset all the paste pots. One fellow was shot in the meat. The fierce and bitter counter-blasts of insults to the length of five columns in each paper. This in an issue only, of course. The police do not interfere with no arrests have been made. The government looks on sort of amusedly as these two parties waste their energy in futile quarrels.

In addition Paris is entertained with a grotesque opera-buffa to the tune

Riverside and Monroe Named for State Title Battle

Gainesville School And Newnan Enter Protest to Ruling

Meeting of G. I. A. A. Called For Monday Night—Demurrers Are Expected to Be Overruled—Barron of Aggies Willing to Meet Beavers Cadets.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Riverside academy and Red Barron's Monroe Aggie will probably play for the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic association's football championship of 1926, despite the protests of Newnan High and Riverside academy.

H. J. Stegeman, newly-named arbiter of the prep loop, designated these two teams as the leading contenders for state honors and named them for the usual playoff. Newnan High and Riverside academy, through its president, Colonel Sandy Beaver, demurred, and so a meeting of the association has been called for Monday.

Newnan High, in a formal protest, said that it has played the required number of G. I. A. A. games—three—and has lost none of them.

Colonel Sandy Beaver, of Riverside, believes that Riverside and Newnan should play for the title, in that Riverside defeated Monroe earlier in the season. This was a 9-to-7 victory for Riverside, however, and the Aggies have improved since then, scoring a decisive victory over the university school eleven, of Atlanta, here last Friday, by a 20-to-7 score.

Red Barron, coach of the Aggies, and vice president of the G. I. A. A. expressed his approval of Coach Stegeman's ruling, and believes that his team is now better prepared to cope with the Gainesville Cadets.

Tanner Calls Meet. Secretary Tanner, of Lanier High, announced Wednesday night that vice president Barron, in the absence of H. K. White, of Atlanta, president of the G. I. A. A., had instructed him to call a meeting of the association for Monday night. Mr. Tanner stated that he had called the meeting, but that it was duty of the president to name the place of the meeting, and that the place would be announced upon the return of Mr. White, who is in Jackson, Miss.

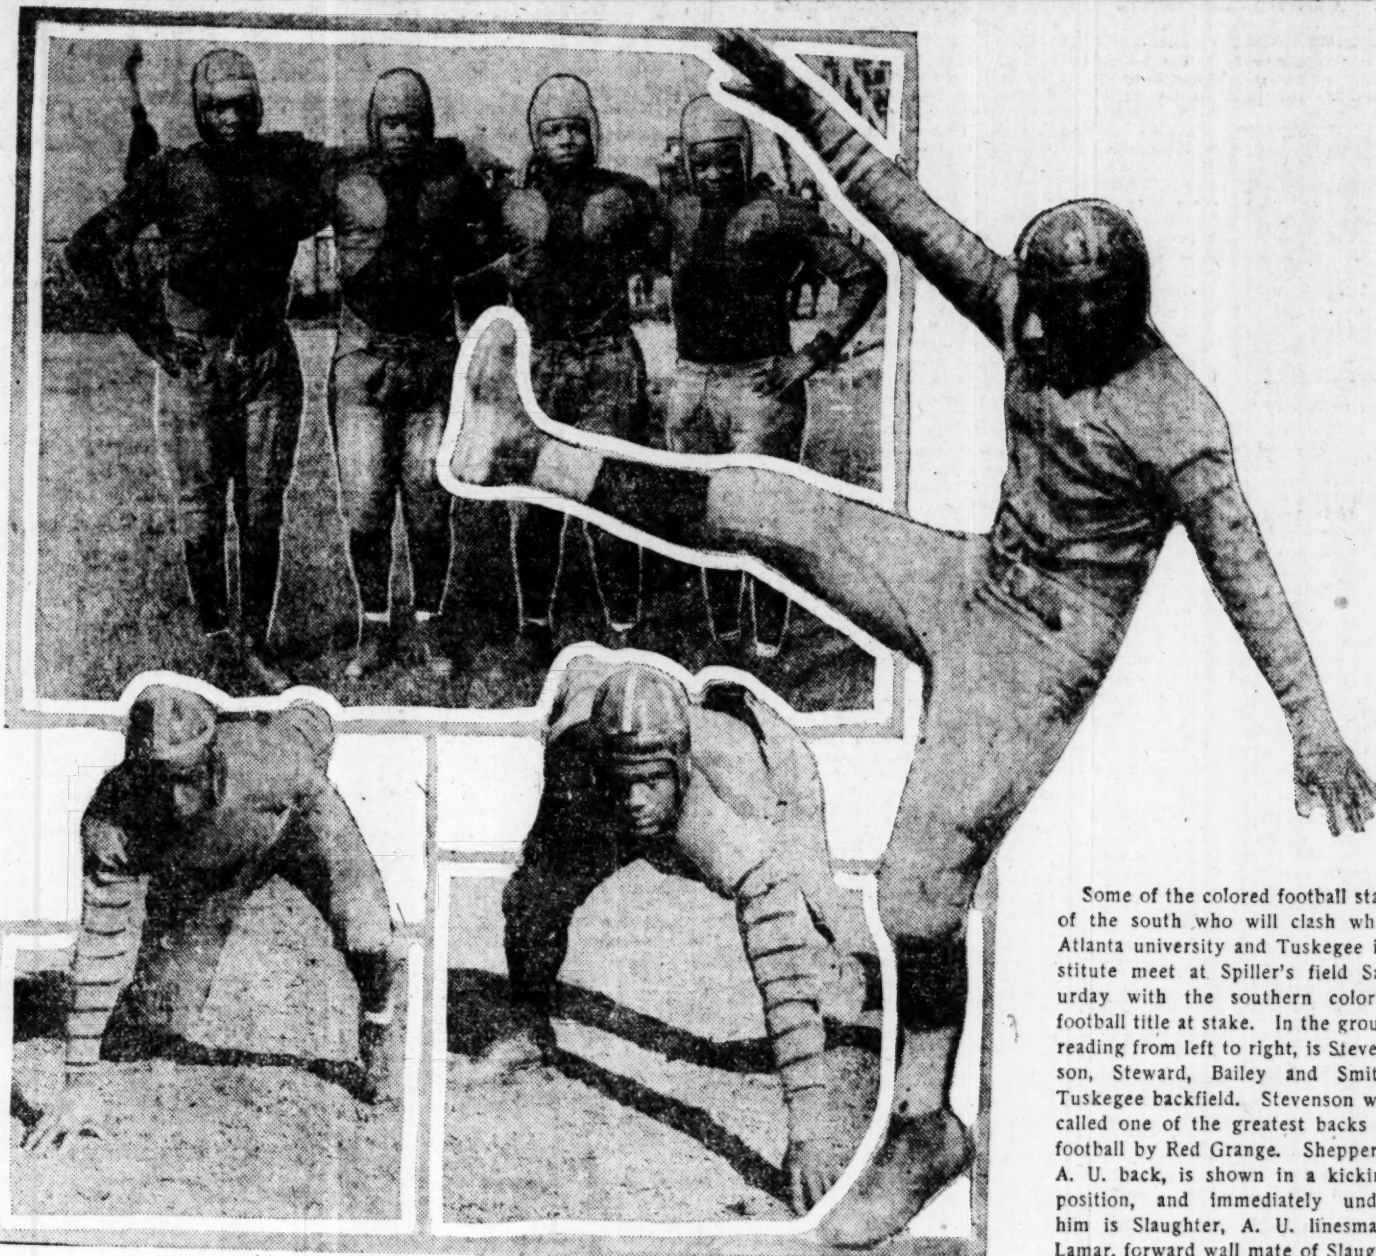

Mr. Tanner also announced that the association would consider Mr. Stegeman's ruling. In the past when rulings of the arbiter, the position held by W. A. Alexander, coach at Tech for many years, proffered, the rulings were usually upheld by the association.

Rule May Be Upheld.

It is probable that this will be the case when the meeting is held next Monday, for several members expressed their approval of Mr. Stegeman's decision.

The rules of the association are that the titular game between the two schools must be played within two

STARS IN RACE FOR NEGRO TITLE

Some of the colored football stars of the south who will clash when Atlanta university and Tuskegee institute meet at Spiller's field Saturday with the southern colored football title at stake. In the group, reading from left to right, is Stevenson, Steward, Bailey and Smith, Tuskegee backfield. Stevenson was called one of the greatest backs in football by Red Grange. Shepperd, A. U. back, is shown in a kicking position, and immediately under him is Slaughter, A. U. linesman. Lamar, forward wall mate of Slaughter, is at the left on the bottom.

Bobby Jones III

There's another Robert Tyre Jones in Atlanta now. He is Robert Tyre Jones III, and Wednesday night at 10 o'clock he was one day old. Bobby's heir and Mrs. Jones are at St. Joseph's infirmary where both are reported resting well. Bobby III has a sister, Clara Malone, who will be two years old next April.

weeks of the Saturday following Thanksgiving day.

If the two schools meet for the title, it is very probable that the game will be played in Atlanta. Officials at Riverside are in favor of playing the game here. Both of the teams have appeared before local fans and have met with approval. A state title game in Atlanta would be sure to draw one of the largest prep grid crowds of the season.

SEAL TOURNEY IS APPROVED BY GOLF IDOL

Expressing the belief that the time had come when four million golf players of America through their 4,700 clubs, can deal a smashing blow against tuberculosis, now taking toll of athletes even as of all other groups, "Bobby" It. Jones, Jr., the golf wizard and idol, has sent a telegram to the special New York tournament committee of which Commander John H. Klein, Jr., is chairman, asking to be joined to the crusade which Jesse Sweetser started in order to "wipe out the white plague."

"I am glad to learn so many notable players have entered for the Christmas Seal golf tournament scheduled for Seaview on December 8," reads the wire, "because the whole proposition impresses me as a fine opportunity for golf players, throughout the country to help smash the white plague which is claiming so many victims among athletes and which the National Tuberculosis association, through its 1,400 local organizations, is trying to stamp out. I understand there are about one million tuberculosis cases in the United States today and that many of these

Baseball Is Again Scheduled for Fire At Conference Meet

Southern College Athletic Authorities Convene in Annual Session in Jacksonville Friday—Many Important Questions Expected to Rise.

Jacksonville, Fla., December 1.—(AP)—College baseball, eclipsed in universal interest by football, but held on the list of major collegiate sports by reason of its seasonal appeal, probably will receive some new life Friday.

The rule book has followed the professional menace in baseball with such a wary eye that few rules are now possible to further tighten the amateur requirements of the college game. Summer baseball has virtually been denied the college player. He cannot receive pecuniary consideration for playing on any summer baseball team, although he may participate in vacation baseball if he plays for fun on a club which is engaged no oftener than three times a week.

Further restriction was clamped on the summer baseball game last year at Athens, Ga., meeting when the conference adopted a rule that no student playing on a team recognized by the national baseball commission shall be eligible for intercollegiate athletics. The new rule was designed to reach many of the small-town leagues untouched by former rules. Many of the small leagues schedule no more than three games a week, but they submit their differences to the national commission and are recognized by that body.

Another rule provides that any college athlete who receives money for signing a contract with a professional baseball team shall be ineligible for intercollegiate athletics. This prevents the college player from signing a contract with professional clubs until after the close of his final college season. If a college player participates on a summer baseball club, under the rules regarding number of games per week and compensation, he must do so with permission of his faculty committee on athletics and must submit a statement that he has not received money for playing.

As in football, the migratory rules have further strengthened the athletic situation in the colleges in regard to baseball. Players can no longer run from institution to institution. If a player once participates in a sport as a member of a college team, he is forbidden to play in any intercollegiate contest in the same sport as a member of a team of any other institution in the conference.

Baseball teams of conference colleges continue to make lengthy road trips each spring, but the faculty directors and managers complain that baseball gate receipts in many instances barely meet the expense account. In some schools a deficit is covered by funds derived from football, the modern drawing card of athletic events.

Many southern colleges with open dates on their 1927 football schedule will close the list during the stay of their representatives at the southern conference assembly here this week.

Between the times the conference sits in session, all kinds of private "contests" take place. At many of these the lines left blank on gridiron contracts are filled. Sometimes such contracts call for return games and thus uncertain relationships are formulated as long as three years in advance.

Atlanta U.-Tuskegee Prime for Title Fray

BY J. C. CHUNN.

When the Crimson Hurricane of Atlanta university meets the Tuskegee Tigers at Spiller's field Saturday at 2 o'clock, not only will the colored football championship of the south be decided, but Atlanta will see in action one of the fastest and most versatile backs in university football. Red Grange, the famous phantom of Illinois, after seeing Stevenson, the fleet-footed halfback of the unbeaten Tuskegee Tigers, run wild on Franklin field at the University of Pennsylvania and beat the Lincoln university eleven 20 to 16, paid him this personal compliment when he met him after the game: "He is, without reservation, one of the best backs and one of the greatest triple threat men playing in college football this year."

Stevenson has led his team this season to nine straight victories, and besides being a deadly runner with the ball, he passes, punts and is an accurate place kicker.

Upon their ability to stop Stevenson depends Atlanta university's chance to win the game. Stevenson is playing his fourth year of college ball and has held a place on the colored all-American team throughout the time he has worn the mole skins.

With Stevenson as the center of the attack, Coach Abbott has built around him a team of first class men. As a running mate, for Stevenson, Tuskegee has Steward, the other half who is a broken field runner of ability.

Strong Quarter. At quarter, Smith is a three-year man and a fine field general. In the hard charging line, Captain Kitchen is a power at tackle. Endlock, all conference center for three years, plays a roving game and on the defense is a wonder in plugging holes in the line. In Ellis, a 200-pound guard, the Tigers have a man who is a work of strength on both offense and defense, and in Duncan at end, they have a forward pass receiver that has been compared to Tully, of Dartmouth, and his uncanny ability to play diagnosis has resulted in his end being almost impregnable during the season. With a team of this character, reason is easily seen for Tuskegee's unbroken record of nine straight victories.

At Atlanta university pep meetings are being held every day this week and the spirit is rampant to "Skin the Tigers! Beat Tuskegee."

Interest in the game is widespread among both white and colored patrons. Such a great demand has been made for tickets that additional seating facilities are being provided. The entire Georgia Tech and Oglethorpe football squads will attend the game in a body.

A few comparative scores indicate the balance between the teams. Tuskegee beat Morehouse 28-6; A. U. beat the same team 32-0; Tuskegee beat Lincoln university at Franklin field, Philadelphia, 20-16, while Howard beat Lincoln on Thanksgiving 32-0 and Atlanta university held Howard to a 7-0 score. These comparative tallies indicate teams of even ability, and it is expected to fly when they meet. Atlanta used its second team throughout the first half in its last game against Morris Brown university in an effort to rest its varsity as much as possible for Tuskegee.

The game is regarded as the southern colored classic and reservations have already been made from Columbus, Augusta, Macon, Brunswick, Albany, Montgomery, Birmingham, Fort Valley and many from the north and east. Following the game there will be a social function at the hotel in the auditorium-annex, at which the teams will be guests of honor.

Tickets may be procured at Chestnut place at Five Points, the Atlanta Athletic club, Yates and Milton pharmacy, Aiken and Faulkner and on the Atlanta university campus.

Harrisburg Buys Rangenow, Sellers

Harrisburg, Pa., December 1.—(AP) Purchase of Milton Rangenow, catcher, from the Cincinnati National club, and Duke Zellers, pitcher, from the Norfolk team of the Virginia league, was announced today by Samuel Kades, president of the Harrisburg club of the New York-Pennsylvania baseball league. The purchase price was not made public.

WILBUR GOOD WILL BE PILOT OF PEACHES

Wilbur Good, stellar outfield performer for the Atlanta Crackers will don the uniform of the Macon Peaches next season as manager, according to Rell J. Spiller, owner of the Crackers.

His signature to the contract to pilot the Peaches is expected to be affixed Monday when President Roy J. Williams of the Macon club will be in Atlanta for a conference with Good and Spiller.

Spiller said Wednesday that Good had agreed to terms as set forth by the Macon club and nothing remaining but the completion of the contract.

Middies Arrange Tough Schedule

Annapolis, Md., December 1.—When the Middies meet the Cadets in New York on November 28, 1927, they will have gone through as stiff a schedule as could be mapped out for any football team.

Knute Rockne's Notre Dame eleven will travel to Baltimore October 15 to face Ingram's sailor boys. Two weeks later the Middies will tackle Pennsylvania on a Philadelphia gridiron and within a fortnight they will stack up against the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Coach Ingram is fortunate, however, in getting at least one so-called "soft spot" sandwiched between the hard games. The Navy will meet Loyola November 19 and then rest up for the Army game nine days later.

The schedule follows:

October 1—Army, at New York.
October 8—Drake university, at home.
October 15—Notre Dame, at Baltimore.
October 22—Duke university, at home.
October 29—Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.
November 5—West Virginia Wesleyan, at home.
November 12—Michigan, at Ann Arbor.
November 19—Loyola, at home.
November 28—Army, at New York.

That's what I call a cigarette

I MADE it myself . . . with Prince Albert and the makin's papers. Prince Albert? I hope to tell you! Sure, it's a real cigarette tobacco. I'll say it is! I ought to know. Been rolling 'em with P. A. so many years, I couldn't say when I started.

A cigarette made with good old P. A. is cool and sweet, like a glass of milk at the spring-house door. It has plenty of body, but is mild as Maytime in the valley. Fragrant . . . you know that the minute you open the tidy tin. Fragrant as it burns too.

Another thing I like about P. A. for cigarettes is the way the tobacco's cut. It stays right in the paper. Doesn't dance around with the first breeze that comes along. That means less waste in both tobacco and time. I can smoke one right after the other without putting a wire edge on my tongue or throat.

If you want to make the best little cigarette you ever rolled, get some Prince Albert. Between times, try P. A. in your old jimmy-pipe. If you've wanted to smoke a pipe but felt you didn't dare, Prince Albert is your password to pipe-peace. I know . . . I smoke it both ways every day.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Five Points of Tide's Success Told by Wallace Wade

Backfield of 1925 Stronger Than 1926, Alabama Coach Says

This Year's Line Probably Stronger—Forwards Improved Noticeably With Advance of Season—Injuries Kept Backs Always Shifted.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., December 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Wallace Wade has "five points" in fundamentals that really spell the secret of Alabama's phenomenal football success for the past three years.

In a statement to the Associated Press the Crimson mentor answers a number of questions that have been outstanding in the gridiron layman's mind each season as his Tide swept all before it in successive matches to a Dixie title.

"Among the most important fundamentals are blocking, tackling, charging, throwing and catching passes," Coach Wade says.

"With this assertion instantly comes the conviction that those principles have largely brought home the bacon—in the parlance of the trade—in Tuscaloosa.

After the Vanderbilt game in October, critics said superb blocking by the Tide's end men McGugin's team. It was wonderful passing that beat Georgia Tech and various other teams and tackling that stopped Georgia Tech. Three post-mortems held by Wade's "points." So it is through the dusty record files of his four years at Alabama. Thirty-one victories, three losses and a tie bespeak their worth.

Backfield Interior. Asked how the 1926 team compares with the preceding year, Wade says: "This year's Alabama team is probably stronger in the line than last year's but not quite so strong in the backfield. The 1926 team has been fortunate in having unusual teamwork."

In 1925, the Tide had Mack Brown, Paddy Hubert and Grant Gillis, considered to have been three of the greatest backs in southern football history.

Referring to his offensive ace, he answered the question, "Are football players made or born?" by saying: "Certain men are born with mental, physical and moral attributes which make it possible for them to become good football players. No man can become an expert, finished player, except after long and continuous practice on his part."

Coach Wade exploded the popular idea that Alabama was in mid-season form early in the season and that this conditions was maintained steadily from then on.

Started With Vandy. The Alabama football team was not in mid-season form when Vanderbilt was met on the second of October. This year's team individually and collectively has improved as much as any I have ever coached. This improvement has been particularly marked in the play of the line, both on offense and defense. The improvement of our backs has not been so apparent on account of the backfield being disorganized because of injuries. It was necessary to play a different backfield in each game and the cooperation and teamwork of the backs never reached the stage of development which it should have if conditions had been different.

He let it be known that the worries of a coach grow steadily as the team advances into a successful season.

"The coach begins to worry more after he has won a few important games, and begins to realize that he has championship prospects" was the way Wade put it.

Mental Condition. In speaking of some of the problems of coaches, he adds: "It is impossible for any coach to absolutely control the mental condition of the entire team. He can control the morale of his entire football squad. All that a coach can do is to study very carefully the reaction of the individual members and through private contacts, undertake to mold the morale. It often becomes necessary to replace certain members of the team on account of their mental attitude."

On the night before a game, Coach Wade said the team usually retired about 10 o'clock with each man arising at his usual hour.

"So far as it is possible to do so, the players are urged to continue their normal habits."

Turning to the Tide's schedule and prospective east-west game, he said: "If Alabama is allowed to play Stanford New Year's day the team would train for this game very seriously and I am sure that each man will appreciate the responsibility of upholding the prestige of southern and eastern football. It is practically impossible to compare the strength of the two teams, however, on account of playing against different opposition and under different conditions."

As to any rumors that the Alabama team is looking outside the conference for games, Mr. Wade said: "Alabama feels that there is as much honor in winning games from Southern Conference teams as there would be in winning from any teams in the United States. We hope to continue our present relationships with our neighboring institutions."

Pep Class Seeks New Opponents

The Pep class of Atlanta, is seeking out-of-town basketball games for this season with strong teams and any team desiring games with a good team is requested to get in touch with J. E. Parker, manager of the team, and arrange for the games.

The Pep class has a very strong team this season, having defeated some of the best teams in the city. Tuesday night the Pep class took the twenty-second Infantry to ride by a score of 35 to 33, in one of the best games of the season.

Parker can be reached by telephone at Huntley 7754-W. His residence is at 132 Mills street, Atlanta.

Poisoned?

New York, December 1.—(AP)—"Put it down as a lot of bunk," Tex Rickard, promoter of the Dempsey-Tunney fight, said today when informed of charges by Charles J. Mabbutt in Baltimore that the former heavyweight champion was poisoned before the title bout.

"The poison story was circulated for some time after the bout," said Rickard, "but I know there was nothing to it. Dempsey told me, as well as others, that it was the bunk."

Gene Tunney said: "Having known Captain Mabbutt in France I also happen to know his mental depth. Nobody who knows him will take his charges seriously."

MERCER BEARS MAY BATTLE GENEVA TEAM

Macon, Ga. December 1.—(AP)—Mercer university will in all probability play Geneva college, of Beaver Falls, Pa., in Jacksonville, Fla., on New Year's day, according to present plans, taking the place of Oglethorpe university, of Atlanta, which was originally scheduled as opponent to the sturdy eleven that conquered Harvard.

The Mercer board of athletic control today received a formal invitation from the Jacksonville committee promoting the proposed Geneva-Oglethorpe game, offering Mercer the place held by Oglethorpe.

Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, president of Mercer, tonight expressed himself as being heartily in favor of the game with Geneva. The majority of the members of the Mercer athletic board are also in favor of the game and Coach H. Parker Mosley, Mercer director, has indicated that he would not be averse to playing Geneva.

Should the financial guarantee be sufficient to warrant Mercer's continuing its football training season a month longer than usual in order for the squad to be in condition for the game.

The Mercer athletic board will meet Thursday to determine whether or not Mercer will accept the invitation from Jacksonville.

JACOBS IGNORANT OF ANY CHANGES

"I know nothing of it at all," was the comment of Dr. Thorne Jacobs, of Oglethorpe university late Wednesday night, when informed of the Macon dispatch.

Coach Harry Robertson told his men Wednesday afternoon that practice for the game with Geneva in Jacksonville New Year's day would be begun next Monday.

'Y' QUINTET TO MEET PEP FIVESATURDAY

The central "Y" quintet will meet the speedy Pep Class aggregation in their opening game Saturday, December 4, at the Central "Y" court at 8 o'clock. The sale of tickets in tickets that a good crowd will witness the opening game.

The Pep Class boasts of such players as, "Tubby" Allen, forward, formerly of Tech High; Mott, forward, formerly of G. M. A.; Wilkins, forward, formerly of Mercer; Braswell, forward, formerly of Tech High; Smith, forward, formerly of Lanier High; King, center, formerly of Lawrenceville High; Gage, guard, formerly of Strause, N. Y. U.; and Jones, guard, formerly of Fort Valley.

The Y. M. C. A. will put practically a new team in the field this season. Men who make up the first string and who will see action against the Pep class in the opening game are: Captain Urb Wilkinson, veteran star forward; "Pinkie" Bynum, veteran star forward; Oscar Brock, forward; John Adams, forward; Charles Bumstead, forward; Olin Adcock, center; V. H. Cordle, guard; R. H. Guthrie, guard; "Willie" O'Connor, guard. The team is well balanced and the two months of intensive practice has produced a well oiled machine.

When the Pep class and the Y. M. C. A. clash in the opening game next Saturday night, the fans will have an opportunity to appease basketball appetite by seeing two experienced teams in action and in mid-season form.

SUNNYBROOK HORSE SHOW PLANS MADE

Judging from the large number of entries, the horse and pony show to be held next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, at Sunnybrook Riding track, Garden Hills, will be even more successful than former shows.

Robert E. Harvey, vice president of the Atlanta trust company, who is chairman of the committee, has received a number of attractive loving cups which will be given as awards in addition to the ribbons. Mr. Harvey, together with William Candler and F. M. Stewart, will act as judges.

Homers Thompson and Trammel Scott will serve as riding masters. Hunt Chisley will act as referee.

The various events include, saddle ponies under 48 inches, saddle ponies under 48 inches and over, three gaited class ridden by a woman, five gaited class ridden by a woman, best five gaited pony ridden by a boy or girl, ponies in harness, women's novice class, best pony in show, best horse in show ridden by woman, best horse in show ridden by man, exhibition Garden Hills stables, special event for colored grooms five gaited horses.

Avera Easily Beats Shepherd

Macon, Ga., November 1.—(AP)—Larry Avera, Atlanta welterweight, had little trouble retaining his southern junior welterweight title tonight. He gained a popular 10-round decision over Jordan Shepherd, Macon aspirant.

Avera outboxed, outslugged and generally outsmarted Shepherd, whose only good point was his ability to absorb punishment.

Avera weighed 143 pounds and Shepherd 135.

Tidelets Given Great Ovation by Alumni

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Birmingham, Ala., December 1.—If the far-famed Crimson Tide of Alabama university goes to the Pacific coast for New Year's day and comes back without the collective scalp of the Stanford football team, the fault can not possibly lie with the alumni of the school who gathered in one roaring mass to do homage to the members of the 1926 Tide here tonight.

The mammoth banquet, attended by nearly 1,000 alumni of the university as well as members of many high school teams from Birmingham and vicinity, was a revelation in the dispensation of spirits—mental, not physical—and we venture to say with little fear of contradiction that no victorious football team on the eve of a great battle ever received greater tribute at the hands of its admirers.

The school sells of the high-school outfits during the dinner served as an anti-climax to the words of Dr. James S. Thomas, who presided; President George H. ("Mike") Denny, Morgan Blake, Fuzzy Woodruff and Borden Burr, who were the principal speakers of the evening.

President Denny spoke in thrilling words of the glory that is Alabama; Morgan Blake presented the Champ Pickens trophy to Captain "Red" Barnes, of the Tide; Fuzzy Woodruff had the privilege of introducing the members of the "Fourth Estate," from many southern cities, and Borden presented the graduating members of the team with gifts from the alumni.

Through the words of all these men rang the same sentiment—"Dixie is proud of Alabama." That was the message which pervaded the whole meeting along with the instruction to the team to "Go west and blow up the country"—to paraphrase the famous Horace Greely.

During the festivities it "was announced by Captain Red Barnes that Freddie Pickard, giant tackle of the 1926 champions, had been named to lead the Tide in 1927. Red Brown, the Dolphin speedster and younger brother of Johnny Mack Brown, was elected alternate. The selection of Pickard and Brown was made by this year's letter men on the trip up Wednesday afternoon. Both Pickard and Brown are juniors and will close their three years of varsity service next season.

The Pickens cup, emblematic of football supremacy in the southern conference, was awarded the Crimson Tide for the third consecutive year. This season's triumph giving the Tide the right of permanent possession.

Morgan Blake presented the trophy with a brilliant and entertaining 15 minutes of oratory. Mr. Blake paid tribute to the Crimson eleven and to its coaches, telling of the south's high regard of its champions and of the good will borne toward Alabama by the other members of the Big Dixie group.

Gold watches were presented the graduating members of the varsity squad by the Birmingham alumni body, following the annual custom that

Monday Wrestling Card Is Completed; Ruble Meets Dallis

A short bout between two grapplers who have served as referees in previous matches here will serve as the opener of the three-match show at the city auditorium Monday night, so Promoter John Contos announced Wednesday night. The first bout will be started promptly at 8 o'clock.

Bob Ruble, who acted as the third man in the first three matches of the season here, has agreed to tackle Pete Dallis, who handled the last bout between Dick Daviscourt and Pete Sauer. Both men are middleweights.

Ruble has had considerable experience on the mat and is capable of giving Dallis a tough struggle. Dallis won a fall over Ruble in a hard-fought bout at Birmingham last year.

Ticket Sale Begins. Tickets for the show, which features Dick Daviscourt against Oreste Vadalfi in the main event and Jimmy Londos against Jack Roller in the one-hour semi-windup, were delivered to Promoter Contos Wednesday. They will be placed on sale today at Chess Place and the Piedmont Hatters.

The appearance of Londos, a local favorite, in the semi-windup assures the fans one of the best wrestling cards that Contos has offered since he started promoting here. Londos is ordinarily a main-event performer in any city. He agreed to take the second position but because of his desire to stage a comeback after losing to Daviscourt here a few weeks ago.

Roller is a tough opponent for the Greek star. He weighs 215 pounds and is one of the strongest men in the wrestling game. In addition to the victories that he has scored on Vadalfi is at one and the same time one of the most colorful and versatile wrestlers in the business. He has been a soldier, dancer, professional weight lifter and wrestling champion of the Italian army. Vadalfi was born in Turin, Italy, in 1897. It was while a member of the Italian army during 1912 and 1913 that Vadalfi first became interested in wrestling and weight lifting.

During the world war he was again a member of the Italian army, winning the army wrestling championship during that service. After being mustered out he came to America and for two years experienced considerable difficulty in getting matches.

With this assertion instantly comes the conviction that those principles have largely "brought home the bacon"—in the parlance of the trade—in Tuscaloosa.

After the Vanderbilt game in October, critics said superb blocking by the Tidelessmen downed McGuffin's team. It was wonderful passing that beat Georgia Tech and vicious charging and tackling that stopped Georgia.

"These three post-mortems held by sporting writers, accentuate Coach Wade's 'points.' So it is through the dusty record files of his four years at Alabama. Thirty-one victories, three losses and a tie bespeak their truth.

Backfield Interior. Asked how the 1926 team compares with the preceding year, Wade says: "This year's Alabama team is probably stronger in the line than last year's but not quite so strong in the backfield. The 1926 team has been fortunate in having unusual teamwork."

In 1925, the Tide had Mack Brown, Pooley Hubert and Grant Gillis, conceded to have been three of the greatest backs in southern football history.

Referring to his offensive axis, he answered the question, "Are football players made or born?" by saying: "Certain men are born with mental, physical and moral attributes which make it possible for them to become good football players. No man can become an expert, finished player, except after long and continuous practice on his part."

Coach Wade exploded the popular idea that Alabama was in mid-season form early in the season and that this condition was maintained steadily from then on.

Started With Vandy. The Alabama football team was not in mid-season form when Vanderbilt was met on the second of October. This year's team individually and collectively has improved as much as any I have ever coached. This improvement has been particularly marked in the play of the line, both on offense and defense. The improvement of our backs has not been so apparent on account of the backfield being disorganized because of injuries. It was necessary to play a different backfield in each game and the cooperation and teamwork of the backs never reached the stage of development which it should have if conditions had been different.

He let it be known that the worries of a coach grow steadily as the team advances into a successful season.

"The coach begins to worry more after he has won a few important games, and begins to realize that he has championship prospects" was the way Wade put it.

Mental Condition. In speaking of some of the problems of coaches, he adds: "It is impossible for any coach to absolutely control the mental condition of the members of his entire football squad. All that a coach can do is to study very carefully the reaction of the individual members and through private contacts, endeavor to mold the morale. It often becomes necessary to replace certain members of the team on account of their mental attitude."

On the night before a game, Coach Wade said the team usually retired about 10 o'clock with each man arising at his usual hour.

"So far as it is possible to do so, the players are urged to continue their normal habits."

Turning to the Tide's schedule and prospective end-of-year game, he says, "If Alabama is allowed to play Stanford New Year's day the team would train for this game very seriously and I am sure that each man will appreciate the responsibility of upholding the prestige of southern and eastern football. It is practically impossible to compare the strength of the two teams, however, on account of playing against different opposition and under different conditions."

As to any rumors that the Alabama team is looking outside the conference for games, Mr. Wade said: "Alabama feels that there is as much honor in winning games from Southern Conference teams as there would be in winning from any teams in the United States. We hope to continue our present relationships with our neighboring institutions."

Pep Class Seeks New Opponents

The Pep class of Atlanta, is seeking out-of-town basketball games for this season with strong teams and any team desiring games with a good team is requested to get in touch with J. E. Parker, manager of the team, and arrange for the games.

The Pep class has a very strong team this season, having defeated some of the best teams in the city. Tuesday night the Pep class took the Twenty-second Infantry to ride by a score of 35 to 23, in one of the best games of the season.

Parker can be reached by telephone at Huntley 7754-W. His residence is at 132 Mills street, Atlanta.

Poisoned?

New York, December 1.—(AP)—"Put it down as a lot of bunk," Tex Rickard, promoter of the Dempsey-Tunney fight, said today when informed of charges by Charles J. Mabbitt in Baltimore that the former heavyweight champion was poisoned before the title bout.

"The poison story was circulated for some time after the bout," said Rickard, "but I know there was nothing to it. Dempsey told me, as well as others, that it was the bunk."

Gene Tunney said: "Having known Captain Mabbitt in France I also happen to know his mental depth. Nobody who knows him will take his charges seriously."

TIDE DROPS L. S. U. FROM 1927 GAMES

University, Alabama, December 1.—Birmingham drew four games on the Alabama grid schedule, a schedule that has only one difference from the one just completed by the Crimson Tide.

Alabama State has been dropped and Southwestern Presbyterian substituted.

Alabama will play seven conference games this next grid season, one S. I. A. A. game and one non-conference game. No inter-sectional tilt is scheduled, although the Tide received more than three dozen offers from the most prominent teams in the country for games.

Birmingham will see Sewanee, Kentucky, Vanderbilt and Georgia against Alabama next season. The annual games with Georgia Tech and Florida will be played at Atlanta and Montgomery, respectively. The three home games will be against Millsaps, S. P. U. and Mississippi A. and M., the latter being scheduled for homecoming day.

The Tide loses nine veterans of this year's outfit in Captain Barnes, Caldwell, Morrison, Winslett, Peery, Johnson and Rosenfeld, but have a promising return of old men and a good verdant outfit coming on. Letters were awarded today to the aforementioned men, Manager Joyce and Taylor, Vines, Earl Smith, Payne, Pearce, Bowdoin, Hazler and Pickard.

The complete schedule follows: September 23, Millsaps, at Tuscaloosa.

October 1, Vanderbilt, at Birmingham.

October 8, S. P. U., at Tuscaloosa.

October 15, Georgia Tech, at Atlanta.

October 22, Sewanee, at Birmingham.

October 29, Mississippi A. and M., at Tuscaloosa.

November 6, Kentucky, at Birmingham.

November 12, Florida, at Montgomery.

Thanksgiving day, Georgia, at Birmingham.

BULLDOG FIVE AND VIRGINIA TANGLE JAN. 21

University, Va., December 1.—Thirteen basketball games have been scheduled for the University of Virginia quintet, according to the tentative list of games announced by D. E. Brown, graduate manager, and other contests will probably be added to bring the total number of games up to 16 or 18.

Virginia's basketball team is now without a captain, for Wat Tyler, of Fargo, N. D., center and captain-elect, has not returned to the university. It seems likely that his successor will be either Charlie Mackall, of Washington, D. C., guard and captain of football, or Bobby Cabell, of Richmond, Va., forward and letter man in basketball.

Six Southern conference teams are included in the list of games to be played. Home and home games have been scheduled with Maryland and V. M. I. and Washington and Lee, Georgia, V. P. I. and South Carolina will also come here to play. North Carolina will be met in Chapel Hill and there is also a neutral game with South Carolina to take place in Lynchburg, Va.

The Navy will be played at Annapolis and Stevens Tech is to come to the Memorial gymnasium. The tentative schedule follows:

January 10, Maryland, at home.

January 11, Richmond, at home.

January 21, Georgia, at home.

January 22, V. P. I., at home.

January 26, V. M. I., at home.

February 3, Stevens, at home.

February 4, North Carolina, in Chapel Hill.

February 7, V. M. I., at Lexington.

February 11, South Carolina, at Lynchburg.

February 12, South Carolina, at home.

February 15, Maryland, at College Park.

February 16, Navy, at Annapolis.

February 19, Washington and Lee, at home.

POLO TEAMS ARE POINTING FOR TOURNEY

In preparation for the big polo tournament to be held at Fort McPherson December 8-10-12, the 22d infantry journeyed to Fort Benning last Sunday, and played three teams, a three-chukker match each. They lost being mounted on horses unfamiliar to them and playing the entire three matches, although the horses were excellent mounts.

The 22d infantry, however, despite this setback, offers no alibis and in the coming tourney hopes to show that they are an improved outfit. They meet the Governor's Horse Guards in the first match December 8, and this should furnish very interesting entertainment.

The seating arrangements have been changed in that there will be no reserve parking or seating space provided. First come first served will be the motto. There will be space for approximately 200 cars and seats for 1,000 or more visitors. The admission will be 50 cents per person.

Penn Strongest Team.

Defense honors among major teams in the eastern football sector this year go to Pennsylvania. Only 20 points were scored against the Quaker eleven, Cornell posting half of them. Carnegie Tech, conqueror of Notre Dame, was second with 23, and N. Y. U. was third with 25.

MERCER BEARS MAY BATTLE GENEVA TEAM

Macon, Ga. December 1.—(AP)—Mercer university will in all probability play Geneva college, of Beaver Falls, Pa., in Jacksonville, Fla., on New Year's day, according to present plans, taking the place of Oglethorpe university, of Atlanta, which was originally scheduled as opponent to the sturdy eleven that conquered Harvard.

The Mercer board of athletic control today received a formal invitation from the Jacksonville committee promoting the proposed Geneva-Oglethorpe game, offering Mercer the place held by Oglethorpe.

Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, president of Mercer, tonight expressed himself as being heartily in favor of the game with Geneva. The majority of the members of the Mercer athletic board are also in favor of the game and Coach E. Parker Mosley, Mercer director, has indicated that he would not be averse to playing Geneva should the financial guarantee be sufficient to warrant Mercer's continuing its football training season a month longer than usual in order for the squad to be in condition for the game.

The Mercer athletic board will meet Thursday to determine whether or not Mercer will accept the invitation from Jacksonville.

JACOBS IGNORED BY ANY CHANGES.

"I know nothing of it at all," was the comment of Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, of Oglethorpe university late Wednesday night when informed of the Macon dispatch.

Coach Harry Robertson told his men Wednesday afternoon that practice for the game with Geneva in Jacksonville New Year's day would be begun next Monday.

'Y' QUINTET TO MEET PEP FIVESATURDAY

The central "Y" quintet will meet their speedy Pep class aggregation in their opening game, Saturday, December 4, at the Central "Y" court at 8 o'clock. The sale of tickets in quantities that a good crowd will witness the opening game.

The Pep Class boasts of such players as: "Tubby" Allen, forward, formerly of Tech High; Mott, forward, formerly of G. M. A. Wilkes, forward, formerly of Mercer; Braswell, forward, formerly of Tech High; Smith, forward, formerly of Lanier High; King, center, formerly with Lawrenceville High; Gage, guard, formerly of Straune, N. Y. U., and Jones, guard, formerly of Fort Valley.

The Y. M. C. A. will put practically a new team in the field this season. Men who make up the first string and who will see action against the Pep class in the opening game are: Captain Urb Wilkinson, veteran star forward; "Pinkie" Brynne, veteran star guard; Oscar Brock, forward; Johnnie Adams, forward; Charles Bumstead, forward; Olin Adcock, center; V. H. Cordle, guard; R. H. Guthrie, guard; "Willie" O'Connor, guard. The team is well balanced and the two months of intensive practice has produced a well oiled machine.

When the Pep class and the Y. M. C. A. clash in the opening game next Saturday night, the fans will have an opportunity to appease basketball appetite by seeing two experienced teams in action and in mid-season form.

SUNNYBROOK HORSE SHOW PLANS MADE

Judging from the large number of entries, the horse and pony show to be held next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, at Sunnybrook Riding track, Garden Hills, will be even more successful than former shows.

Robert E. Harvey, vice president of the Atlanta trust company, who is chairman of the committee, has received a number of attractive loving cups which will be given as awards in addition to the ribbons. Mr. Harvey, together with William Candler and F. M. Stewart, will act as judges. Homer Thompson and Trammel Scott will serve as riding masters. Hunt Chisley will act as referee.

The various events include, saddle ponies under 48 inches, saddle ponies 48 inches and over, three gaited class ridden by a woman, five gaited class ridden by a woman, best five gaited pony ridden by a boy or girl, ponies in harness, women's novice class, best pony in show, best horse in show ridden by woman, best boy rider from 10 to 16 years of age, exhibition Garden Hills stables, special event for colored grooms five gaited horses.

Avera Easily Beats Shepherd

Macon, Ga., November 1.—(AP)—Larry Avera, Atlanta welterweight, had little trouble retaining his southern junior welterweight title tonight. He gained a popular 10-round decision over Jordan Shepherd, Macon aspirant.

Avera outboxed, outslugged and generally outsmarted Shepherd, whose only good point was his ability to absorb punishment.

Avera weighed 143 pounds and Shepherd 133.

Tidelets Given Great Ovation by Alumni

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Birmingham, Ala., December 1.—If the far-famed Crimson Tide of Alabama university goes to the Pacific coast for New Year's day and comes back without the collective scalp of the Stanford football team, the fault can not possibly lie with the alumni of the school who gathered in one roaring mass to do homage to the members of the 1926 Tide here tonight.

The mammoth banquet, attended by nearly 1,000 alumni of the university as well as members of many high school teams from Birmingham and vicinity, was a revelation in the dispensation of spirits—mental, not physical—and we venture to say with little fear of contradiction that no victorious football team on the eve of a great battle ever received greater tribute at the hands of its admirers.

The school tells of the high-school outfits during the dinner served as an anti-climax to the words of Dr. James S. Thomas, who presided; President George H. ("Mike") Denny, Morzan Blake, Fuzzy Woodruff and Borden Burr, who were the principal speakers of the evening.

President Denny spoke in thrilling words of the glory that is Alabama's Morgan Blake presented the Champ Pickens trophy to Captain "Red" Barnes, of the Tide; Fuzzy Woodruff had the privilege of introducing the members of the "Fourth Estate," from many southern cities, and Borden presented the graduating members of the team with gifts from the alumni.

Through the words of all these men rang the same sentiment—"Dixie is proud of Alabama." That was the message which pervaded the whole meeting along with the instruction to the team to "Go west and blow up the country"—to paraphrase the famous Horace Greely.

During the festivities it was announced by Captain Red Barnes that Freddie Pickard, giant tackle of the 1926 champions, had been named to lead the Tide in 1927. Red Brown, the Bahian speedster and younger brother of Johnny Mack Brown, was elected alternate. The selection of Pickard and Brown was made by this year's letter men on the trip up Wednesday afternoon. Both Pickard and Brown are juniors and will close their three years of varsity service next season.

The Pickens cup, emblematic of football supremacy in the southern conference, was awarded the Crimson Tide for the third consecutive year. This season's triumph giving the Tide the right of permanent possession.

Morgan Blake presented the trophy with a brilliant and entertaining 15 minutes of oratory. Mr. Blake paid tribute to the season eleven and to its coaches, telling of the south's high regard of its champions and of the good will borne toward Alabama by the other members of the big Dixie group.

Gold watches were presented the graduating members of the varsity squad by the Birmingham alumni body, following the annual custom that was begun four seasons ago. Borden Burr, who made the presentation, stressed the loyalty of the graduating members in giving their full term of service and remaining in college to complete their courses. Those receiving watches were: Gordon Holmes, Billy Morrison, Jimmy Johnson, H. W. Winslett, Captain Emilio Barnes, Claud Perry, Dave Rosenfeld and Bob Enis.

Mr. Burr also presented Coaches Wallace, Wade, Henry Crisp, Russell Cohen, Clyde Probst and Mack Brown with gifts from the Birmingham group.

Colt Pays 191-2 At New Orleans

New Orleans, December 1.—(AP)—Though Hawkeye, a colt from the stable of J. G. McDonnell, was the second horse to cross the finish line, in the third race at Jefferson Park here today, persons who wagered in the pari mutuels that Hawkeye would win, were paid $191 for each of their $2 tickets.

Monday Wrestling Card Is Completed; Ruble Meets Dallis

A short bout between two grapplers who have served as referees in previous matches here will serve as the opener of the three-match show at the city auditorium Monday night, so Promoter John Contos announced Wednesday night. The first bout will be started promptly at 8 o'clock.

Bob Ruble, who acted as the third man in the first three matches of the season here, has agreed to tackle Pete Dallis, who handled the last bout between Dick Daviscourt and Pete Sauer. Both men are middleweights.

Ruble has had considerable experience on the mat and is capable of giving Dallis a tough struggle. Dallis won a fall over Ruble in a hard fought bout at Birmingham last year.

Ticket Sale Begins. Tickets for the show, which features Dick Daviscourt against Oreste Vadalli in the main event and Jimmy Londos against Jack Roller in the one-hour semi-windup were delivered to Promoter Contos Wednesday. They will be placed on sale today at Chess' Place and the Piedmont Hatters.

The appearance of Londos, a local favorite, in the semi-windup assures the fans one of the best wrestling cards that Contos has offered since he started promoting here. Londos is ordinarily a main-event performer in any city. He agreed to take the second position bout because of his desire to stage a comeback after losing to Daviscourt here a few weeks ago.

Roller is a tough opponent for the Greek star. He weighs 215 pounds and is one of the strongest men in the wrestling game. In addition to the victory that he has scored on the mat Roller holds nine different weight-lifting championships. However popular Londos may be with Atlanta fans the main event is the chief topic of interest, as the winner of that bout will meet Champion Joe Stecher at the city auditorium this month. Contos has secured the definite promise of the champion to come here for the business of meeting either Daviscourt or Vadalli.

Versatile Vadalli. Vadalli is at one and the same time one of the most colorful and versatile wrestlers in the business. He has been a soldier, dancer, professional weight lifter and wrestling champion of the Italian army. Vadalli was born in Turin, Italy, in 1897. It was while a member of the Italian army during 1912 and 1913 that Vadalli first became interested in wrestling and weight lifting.

During the world war he was again a member of the Italian army, winning the army wrestling championship during that service. After being mustered out he came to America and for two years experienced considerable difficulty in getting matches.

Contestant's SUBSCRIPTION BOOK

Gentlemen:

Deliver or mail to me your COASTER WAGON book for subscription blanks and instructions for securing three new six-months' subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Constitution for the "CONSTITUTION EXPRESS," as advertised by you in The Constitution.

Name

No. Street or Avenue

P. O. Box No. State

HOW TO EARN ONE

If you want one of these beautiful "CONSTITUTION EXPRESS" wagons, the first thing to do is to clip out the coupon at the left, bring or mail it to The Constitution for a Contest Book. When you get the book, if "Dad" isn't a subscriber to the Daily and Sunday Constitution, get his subscription first and then you will need two more.

THREE DAILY AND SUNDAY NEW SIX-MONTHS' SUBSCRIPTIONS.

That's all! Just three new Daily and Sunday six-months' subscriptions are required to earn one of these beautifully finished "CONSTITUTION EXPRESS" wagons. You are not to collect any money.

IT'S EASY WORK!

It will take you only a short time to get three new subscribers to The Constitution, because everyone knows that The Atlanta Constitution is Atlanta's outstanding newspaper. Besides helping you earn your "CONSTITUTION EXPRESS," the people who sign the agreement or contract for you are receiving the news of the world, interesting reading articles and features for every member of the family for six months.

Start out right now! It's more like fun than work. Get a contract book, secure from good, reliable, financially responsible subscribers; "signature of each," bring or send it to The Constitution office. After the subscriptions are verified and found "O. K.," the wagon is yours.

Read These Instructions Carefully:

Out-of-town workers must turn their coupon book of subscriptions, after it has been filled out with the required number of subscriptions, each signed by the subscriber himself, over to the local Constitution dealer for his acceptance of the new subscriptions.

Newsdealer will indicate his acceptance by writing on the back of the subscription agreement "O. K., accepted by me," and sign his name. Then the book with required number of accepted subscriptions to be sent to The Constitution.

COASTER WAGONS will be shipped by express (collect) to out-of-town workers. Those who live in Atlanta and suburban towns will get the wagons at The Constitution office.

Social and Charitable Affairs

Fill Days Preceding Holidays

As the month of December advances, thoughts of Christmas invade the minds and spirits of humanity and plans for the gay Christmas holidays are in the making. In the meanwhile there are daily affairs of a social and philanthropic nature to keep the days filled and make busy hours.

The Sub-Deb club, a recent acquisition to the social clubs of young girls, will meet today with Miss Anne Kessnich at her home in the Della Manta apartments. Another gathering of the younger members of society will be at the bridge-luncheon at which Miss Edna Belle Raine will be hostess at her home on West Peachtree street as a compliment to Miss Josephine Setze, of Augusta and New York, the guest of Mrs. William Wardlaw.

Of particular interest will be the novel evening program of the French Alliance, whose members will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Enrico Leide at their home on Inman circle at 8 o'clock this evening.

Bazars are occupying an important and conspicuous place in the daily social program. Attractive, ornamental and useful articles are offered for sale by the following organizations: The Ladies Aid society of St. John's Lutheran church; Agnes Lee chapter, U. D. C., at Decatur, and St. Mary's guild, Church of the Incarnation (Episcopal), at the parson house on Lee street.

Saturday Matinee To Be Given at Howard.

The Saturday morning matinee put on by the better films committee at the Howard theater each week, help to make happy other children of Atlanta's public schools, who otherwise might be overlooked by Santa Claus, who has built a house with a big, big chimney, in the lobby of the Howard theater, so that when the children come to the matinee, they may bring gifts of clothing—outgrown but still warm and comfy—books, toys that are in good condition, or that may be easily mended, and other things to delight some childish heart. The matinee starts at 9:30 with the admission 10 and 25 cents. The "Saturday Mother," Mrs. Newton C. Wing, has prepared a fine picture program this week, and Mrs. Charles C. Harding, assistant matinee chairman, has made it possible for the matinee audience to help celebrate "better dance week" by demonstrating some old-time dances on the stage. Little Joe Reed, dressed as a farmer boy, will do some stunts, while the Virginia reel will be danced by lads and lassies in gingham and overalls, pupils of the La Fontaine School of Dancing.

Baby Peggy in "Jack and the Beanstalk," with a really, truly giant, will delight the little folk, while from the juniors will be given "Thomas Meighan's latest film, 'The New Klondike,'" which depicts the real estate boom in a laughable way in Florida, with some fine baseball playing done by the Chicago Cubs.

Juniors will be chaperoned by members of the Atlanta better films committee, assisted by Boy and Girl Scouts, under the direction of Mrs. John G. Courtney, chaperon chairman.

Wesley Class To Give Luncheon.

The Susannah Wesley class, Druid Hills Methodist church, will entertain at a luncheon December 2, at 12:30 o'clock at the church. About 150 guests are expected and all new, as well as old members, are urged to attend. Among the honor guests will be Mrs. Russell, wife of the new pastor, Dr. R. L. Russell.

French Alliance To Give Concert Thursday Evening

The French alliance will have an evening concert at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Enrico Leide, 32 Inman circle, next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Members are requested to arrive promptly and to bring their membership cards.

The following program will be presented: Reading of "Le Pelerin," a modern French play by Chas. Valdrou, presented for the first time this year in Paris at the "Comedie Francaise," interpreted by Mrs. Howard Newton and Mr. Charles Lorrains.

Pupils of Mrs. William Clae Spikes will appear in the following dances: "Valse," by Miss Miska Levitzky and Miss Robert J. Harbor; a "Novelty," by Miss Sarah Sharp; recitation, by Miss Lucie Billant; piano solo, by Mrs. Charles Dowman; "Occasions Exceptionnelles," by Mrs. L. Lenoir; "Chansons Bretonnes," by Mrs. L. P. Boury; "Les Rubans," by Mrs. Charles Lorrains; baritone solo by Edward Kane, of the Emory Glee club, with Dr. Malcolm H. Denny at the piano; "La Sonata," by Cesar Frank; duo, Enrico Leide playing the cello, and Mrs. Charles Dowman at the piano.

E. Rivers School To Give Program.

Every patron and friend of the East Rivers school is invited to the program on Friday evening of this week at 8 o'clock, in the Sunday school assembly room of the Peachtree Road Presbyterian church. The seventh grade of the school will enact the first showing of a short play written by an East Rivers mother. The Fulton High School orchestra will furnish music for the evening and several artists of the city will contribute to the entertainment.

Dance at Biltmore Features Debutantes.

"Debutante night" last evening at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel assembled a number of interesting and delightful parties. Dinner was served at 8:30 o'clock in the Georgian ballroom, after which dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

Weston Hamilton was host in the largest party of the evening in compliment to two popular debutantes, Miss Anne Lane Newell and Miss Henrietta Mikell. Covers were placed for Misses Newell, Mikell, Beverly Northrup, of Wilmington, N. C.; Ellen Newell, Clara Belle King, Ida Sadler, Rebecca Ashcroft, William Foote, Nisbitt Marye, Bip Farnsworth, Claude McGinnis, Thomas Cadet, of London, Eng.; William Hunter, George Harrison, Grosvenor Dennis, Robert Whitley, Baron D-Yey, Mr.

and Mrs. Richard Cobb and Mr. Hamilton. Among others dining and dancing were Misses Sara Hurt, Luttia Johnson, Virginia Howard, Frances Howard, Frisco Howard, Mary Middleton, Yolande Gwin, Jeannette Bailey, Idlene Lewman, Gray Poole, Martha Maddox, Mary Jernigan, Marion Van Dyke, Louise Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Toler, Mrs. Anne Bates Walsh, Mrs. Nina J. Yankey, Isobel Hunter, Edna Raine, Kitty Park, Josephine Setze, of Augusta; Mrs. Leigh Palmer, of New York; Mrs. Howard Tucker, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and others.

Ponce de Leon P. T. A. Board To Meet.

The executive board of the Ponce de Leon P. T. A. will hold its meeting Friday morning, December 3, at 10:30 o'clock in the teachers' lounge at the school.

Mrs. Rice Honors Noted Visitor.

Mrs. P. H. P. Lane, of Philadelphia, Pa., second vice president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was honor guest at the informal luncheon at which Mrs. Charles F. Rice was hostess Wednesday at her home on Peachtree road.

A lovely arrangement of red roses adorned the luncheon table, and covers were placed for eight guests.

Mrs. Peters Gives Buffet Luncheon At Her Home

Mrs. Wimberly Peters entertained at an exquisitely appointed buffet luncheon Wednesday at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue, the occasion assembling about 80 friends of the hostess.

The apartments where the guests were received were decorated with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums, and adorning the center of the handsomely appointed table in the dining room was a large platter of exquisite Claudia Perret roses, lavender sweet peas and valley lilies. At each end of the table cathedral candelsticks held tapers, and the mints and bonbons carried out a dainty color scheme of lavender and yellow.

Presiding at the coffee table in the den was Mrs. Charles Freeman and assisting in entertaining was Mrs. Edward Peters.

Mrs. Peters was gowned in peach-colored georgette crepe embroidered in varicolored flower design. A shoulder bouquet of orchids completed her costume. Mrs. Freeman's gown was of brick-colored chiffon and she wore a bouquet of yellow roses and valley lilies in shoulder effect. Mrs. Edward Peters' gown was of ecru chiffon combined with lace, and her flowers were valley lilies, roses and Parma violets.

Clarkston Church Circles To Hold Bazar.

Circles Nos. 1 and 2 of the Clarkston M. E. church, will hold their bazar Friday and Saturday, December 3 and 4, at the Ellis Hat shop, No. 32 Whitehall street.

Home-made jelly and preserves and all sorts of fancy articles will be sold reasonably.

Schmitz Program Includes Many Modern Numbers

Mrs. Cliff C. Hatcher, president of the Atlanta Music club, has announced the program which will be given by E. Robert Schmitz, famous French pianist in his first local appearance. Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club as the first attraction of the series in time sponsored by the club. The announcement of the selection of the Schmitz program has been awaited with keenest interest by Atlanta music-lovers. Executives of the music club have spent much careful consideration in choosing a program, from the number submitted by the Schmitz management, which will delineate the character of the artist. Schmitz is known as the great modernist and has attained an eminence as a pianist both in France, his native country, and America, the place of his adoption. He is the founder of the Franco-American Musical society, which has been outstanding in its activities for the promotion of better musical composition. Among other activities, Schmitz organized and conducted, in Paris, a mixed chorus. Here later he formed, under his leadership, a symphony orchestra of 60 pieces, 45 being prize winners of the Conservatoire. These choral and orchestral concerts became famous. Many sensational first performances were given and the versatility of Schmitz was emphasized in his appearance as conductor, soloist and lecturer on the same program. Tickets for the series in time or for any individual performance may be secured at the office of the music club, Cable building, 84 North Broad, from 10 to 12 p. m. daily, or at the door to the auditorium at the Woman's club on Saturday.

The full program is as follows: First group: "Fantasi and Fugue in G Minor," by Bach and transcribed by Liszt. Second group: "Bourree," by Scarlatti; "Bourree," by Scarlatti; "Sister Monica," by Couperin and "Toccata," by Scarlatti. The third all Chopin group includes "Nocturne in C Minor," "Etude No. 4, Op. 10," "Nocturne in F Sharp Major" and "Polonaise in A Flat Major." The fourth group is four numbers by Debussy: "Prelude in A Minor," "Fireworks," from preludes; "Moonlight," from suite; "Pour le Piano" and "Dance." In the fifth group: "Chimes of Saint Patrick's," from New York Days and Nights, by Whitthorne; "Plays of the Water," by M. Ravel and "First Spanish Dance," "La Vida Breve," by M. de Falla.

Benefit Dance Takes Place Friday. A benefit dance sponsored by Camp Walker, W. D. C. will be held in Taft hall, city auditorium on Friday evening, December 3, 1926, at 8:30 o'clock. The public is invited. Admission 50 cents. An old-fashioned string band will furnish the music for both round and square dances. Proceeds will go for the benefit of the Confederate Veterans of Camp Walker.

Atlanta Chapter,
U. D. C. Honors
Mrs. P. H. P. Lane

A lovely event of Wednesday afternoon was the informal tea at the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., entertaining in honor of Mrs. P. H. P. Lane, vice president general, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Stafford Seidell, president of the chapter, received with Mrs. Lane, also Mrs. Clifford Walker, first lady of the state; Mrs. Walter Sims, wife of the mayor of Atlanta, and the officers of the chapter, Mrs. Frank Mason, Mrs. J. M. High, Mrs. Cleve Webb, Mrs. T. F. Hemminger, Mrs. Chauncey Smith, Mrs. J. A. C. Clement, Mrs. Moreland Spear, Mrs. J. N. Bateman, Mrs. Forrest Kibler, Mrs. B. K. Boyd. The members of the board assisted in entertaining.

At the tea table Mrs. M. James Stanley Moore presided, assisted by Mrs. Charles Byrd and Mrs. Warren White. A group of young girls of the two chapters of the Children of the Confederacy served punch.

Mrs. Gus Cooper sang a group of songs, one of which was "My Old Kentucky Home," a tribute to Mrs. Lane, whose home was in Kentucky.

As the guests entered they were greeted by Mrs. James Erwin at the door and registered in the guests' book presided over by Mrs. J. N. Dunc.

The beautiful chapter house was decorated throughout in lovely roses of different colors, palms and foliage. Invited to meet the charming guest of honor besides the members of the chapter were many prominent women, among whom were: Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the American Legion auxiliary; Mrs. Charles Rice, president of the Daughters of 1812; Mrs. Edward Alfriend, chairman of the Georgia Colonial Dames; Mrs. C. A. Davis, state regent of the Daughters of American Colonies; Mrs. Charles Lordin, regent of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, president-general of the Ladies' Memorial association; Mrs. Lucius McConnell, regent of the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. William A. Wright, president of the Ladies' Memorial association; Mrs. Howard McCall, first vice president general of the D. A. R.; Mrs. Madison Bell, president of the Pioneer Women; Mrs. W. L. Barnes, president of the Order of the Crown; Mrs. J. M. High, state president of the Patriots and Founders; Mrs. Sam D. Jones, president of the War Mothers; Miss Nan Stephens and others.

Order of Rainbow For Girls To Meet.

The regular meeting of the Order of Rainbow for Girls will be held Friday evening, December 3. There will be special business to be taken care of and every member is asked to be present.

First Baptist Mothers' Class Meets at Manget Home.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' class of the First Baptist Sunday school was held at the Manget Home for Girls, Mrs. Combs acting as hostess. Every year during November this class holds its meeting at the home and brings home-made jellies and supplies for the pantry. This year a large contribution was given. This class has a room furnished in the home—a fitting memorial to the beautiful life of Lillian Clark Todd—and each month a special contribution is made to the home to buy fruits for the girls. A substantial gift was reported to the fountain at the new Georgia Baptist hospital.

Plans are being made for the Christmas party to be given at the Florence Crittendon home and the base hospital. This class will furnish all of the inmates at the base hospital with a Gospel of St. John and will in other ways help to make the Christmas days more cheerful for these shut-ins.

Plans are under way to furnish tables for the dining room at the Atlanta Child's home. Mrs. H. M. Nichols is chairman of the circle to the home.

Sunshine bags have been distributed and it is hoped to raise a nice sum in this way to carry on the many activities of the class. Mrs. Shearer and Mrs. Moncrief were asked to see that every member is supplied with a sunshine bag. Mrs. Curtis, the president, appointed the committees for December, and Wednesday following Christmas day was selected as the day to go to the Florence Crittendon home. Mrs. Crusselle and Mrs. A. E. Wheeler will secure the names of the inmates to whom presents will be sent. Each mother and baby are remembered. Delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. Combs.

Brilliant Parties To Be Given At Clubs During Holidays

The first note of real assurance that the Christmas holidays are approaching is the announcement made by the three large Atlanta social clubs of the brilliant parties at which the clubs will entertain during the gay and festive season. The initial event will be the Christmas Eve dinner-dance at the fashionable Piedmont Driving club. This affair is an annual custom of the club and will assemble several hundred guests.

An outstanding event of December 25 will be the annual Christmas day dinner-dance at the East Lake Country club and the occasion will assemble a large number of holiday visitors and college belles and beaux. The next brilliant event at this popular club will be the New Year's Eve ball, which will usher in the social season of 1927.

The Capital City club will be the scene of an elaborate dinner-dance on New Year's eve, this affair always proving to be the most noteworthy of the club's yearly social program. During the holiday week a whirl of informal gaieties will be given at the Capital City club including teas, luncheons, dinner parties, supper parties and breakfast parties.

Ella W. Smillie
P.-T. A. To Meet.

The Ella W. Smillie P.-T. A. will hold its daddies meet: Friday, December 3, at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of the school, W. A. Sutton will be the speaker for the evening, and an interesting program is promised.

Miss McFarlin Weds Mr. Saussy At All Saints' Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Lillian Elise McFarlin and Hugh Saussy, of Atlanta, formerly of Savannah, was solemnized Wednesday, December 1, at 5:30 o'clock at All Saints' Episcopal church. Rev. W. W. Menninger performed the ceremony in the presence of a fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends.

Palms and foliage decorated the church and pedestals filled with white chrysanthemums added to the artistic setting, while white candles in tall candlesticks gave an effective note to the altar decorations. Preceding the ceremony a program of music was rendered by the organist and the bride party entered to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march.

Bridal Party.
The matron of honor, Mrs. A. S. Weil, of Tampa, Fla., was gowned in rose georgette crepe over gold lace, and she carried a bouquet of roses with touches of old-fashioned flowers in the shades of lavender and blue. Miss Lullia Johnson, maid of honor, wore a gown similar to that of Mrs. Weil, and her flowers were roses, combined with lavender and blue flowers.

Immediately preceding the bride was little Jeanne Radcliffe Saussy, a sister of the groom, who was the daisy flower girl, wearing a frock of pink georgette and carrying a picturesque old-fashioned bouquet. The groomsmen were Sam Varnado, of Augusta; Albert Davis, Duncan Snider of Columbus, and William Wardlaw.

Beautiful Bride.
The beautiful bride entered with her mother, Mrs. Lillian Dickson, McFarlin, who gave her in marriage. She wore a modish gown of blue keyring velvet and a smart hat of gold tulle cloth and her flowers were a shower bouquet of yellow roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. McFarlin, the bride's mother, was gowned in blue georgette and her shoulder corsage was of violets and gardenias.

The lovely bride and her mother were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Walker Saussy, of New Orleans.

Following the ceremony Mrs. L. D. McFarlin was hostess at a buffet supper at her home on West Fifth street, honoring the bridal party and close relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Saussy left after the reception for a wedding journey in the north.

Woman's Relief Corps
G. A. R. To Meet.

The woman's relief corps of G. A. R. will hold its regular meeting at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Albert P. Wood, 96 Waverly Way. Mrs. Cribbs and Mrs. Kling will assist in the entertainment of a Christmas party. A full attendance is requested.

Seminary Senior Class To Give Bazar Friday

The senior class of Washington seminary will give a bazar at the home of its president, Miss Katherine Norcross, at 812 Penn avenue Friday afternoon, the proceeds to be used to defray the expenses of the yearly annual edited by the senior class.

A collection of attractive articles appropriate for Christmas gifts will be on sale including aprons, handkerchiefs, boudoir pillows, handpainted novelties, bridge accessories, dolls toys, home made cakes, home made candies, peanuts, dainty handmade lingerie and other useful and beautiful articles.

The price will be reasonable and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend. Miss Norcross will be assisted by members of the class and several members of the seminary faculty.

Mrs. Renfroe Weds Dr. Westmoreland In Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Nannie Woodward Renfroe and Dr. Willis S. Westmoreland were quietly married Monday, November 29, in Jacksonville, Fla.

The bride is the daughter of the late ex-Mayor James G. Woodward, former Atlanta mayor, and the first Mrs. Woodward.

Dr. Westmoreland is one of the most prominent physicians in the state and has a wide circle of friends.

After a wedding trip through south Florida, Dr. and Mrs. Westmoreland will make their home in Atlanta.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES' UNION TO MEET

Members of the City and County Public Service Employees' union will meet in the Labor temple Saturday night for a smoker and general meeting, it was announced Wednesday.

Presiding officers at the meeting will be Fred K. Stephens, president, and Thomas Roberts, secretary.

The union, including employees of the city and county, has a membership of approximately 500, which will be increased to 1,000 if present plans materialize, it was stated.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY TO CONVENE MONDAY

The October term of the federal grand jury will convene Monday morning when a number of cases will be considered. United States district court also will open Monday in Atlanta, but solely for consideration of civil business.

District court adjourned Tuesday in Gainesville, after terminating out of a total of 103 cases on the calendar. Out of the 75 cases only five defendants were acquitted. The majority of cases were prohibition law violations.

Purse Snatched.

Mrs. G. Gloer, of a Highland avenue address, reported to Call Officers J. H. Crankshaw and J. E. McDaniel that her purse, containing $20, a bank book and a bunch of keys was snatched by two unidentified negroes early Wednesday night on Peachtree street near East Merriitts avenue.

DAILY CALENDAR OF SOCIAL EVENTS

An informal dinner-dance will be given by the Alumni Association of Simplex Shorthand school, Paragon system, this evening at 8 o'clock, Peacock's private dining room.

St. Mary's guild, Church of the Incarnation (Episcopal), will begin its annual bazar, which will be held at the parish house, Lee street and York avenue, West End.

Miss Sarah Hurt will entertain at her home on Piedmont avenue in honor of Miss Edith Gibson, of Gibson, N. C., the guest of Miss Clara Belle King.

Mrs. H. B. Fitzgerald will entertain at a silver tea from 3 to 5 o'clock at her home on 165 Battery place.

The Susannah Wesley class, Druid Hills Methodist church, will entertain at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the church.

Swinnerton To Return.

Joseph M. Swinnerton, captain of marines and former recruiting officer here, will return to Atlanta after January to resume his duties, following an absence of several weeks occasioned by ill health, according to Sergeant Bob Gordon, of the marine corps.

Woman To Lecture.

Miss Elane Scribner, national lecturer of the Theosophical society, will give talks today, Friday and Sunday nights at 8 o'clock at 325 Peachtree street. Meetings are open to the public.

Railroad Bands

To Give Concert At Woman's Club

Through the kindness of J. P. Billups, general passenger agent, the Atlanta Woman's club will have the opportunity of presenting the bands of the Atlanta and West Point and Georgia railroads in a concert at the club auditorium Saturday afternoon, December 11, at 2 o'clock.

The services of these bands are furnished free by the courtesy of the management of the Atlanta and West Point and Georgia railroads.

The concert will be sponsored by Mrs. J. P. Billups, chairman, and the members of the citizenship department. Tickets are for sale at the club house, the Cable Piano company and Penelope Penn at Rich's. Adults, 50 cents, and children 25 cents.

Adams-Pennington.

Quite a heavy program of events is being scheduled for the new year, including the inauguration ceremonies, dedication of new properties and public welcomes to the new staff.

Building and Loan Associations Sought By Two More Cities

While the Georgia Securities commission deliberated on evidence and briefs of the hearing Tuesday on the building and loan movement and the request for its endorsement, plans were announced for the development of two additional building and loan associations in the state.

Those with the seven started during the preliminary period of the campaign last week will represent when organized an increase of more than 50 per cent in the number of associations throughout the state.

The Georgia Building and Loan league today received letters from Guy Alford, of the law firm of Alford and Williams, Swainsboro, Ga., and E. L. Fryer, Jr., of the Southwest Georgia Realty company, Blakely, Ga., asking for particulars and information about the plan of organization. Other cities announcing plans of organization are Newnan, LaGrange, Vidalia, Homerville, Roseville, Bainbridge and Cordele.

STATE OFFICIALS TO CHECK RECORDS IN BANK SHORTAGE

Reynolds, Ga., December 1.—(AP)—State banking department officials were here today in conference with officials of the Reynolds Banking company relative to making a check of the records of the bank which closed yesterday on account of an alleged shortage of two employees of the institution. It is said by R. A. Hinton, president of the bank, that the shortage is about $16,000, but that the positions are fully protected.

County officers here stated that no arrests of employees of the bank had been made as no warrants had been issued so far as they had been informed. The sheriff says that he will not act until warrants are issued. Plans are being made to have the records checked immediately, it was stated.

GEN. HAGOOD SPEAKS AT U. D. C. CONVENTION

Camden, S. C., December 1.—(AP)—Praising the patriotism of the south, Major General Johnson Hagood, of Atlanta, told the state convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy today that the south "stands as a bold challenge to the rest of the country and to the world, 100 per cent pure American."

Speaking on the subject, "The Patriotic South," General Hagood said the south, which he had heard spoken of "with suspicion as to its loyalty" now has assumed leadership in patriotism "free from all cults and isms, square behind our constitution and square behind our government—as is."

"We hear of radicals, of bolsheviks and of communists, but we do not understand what they mean," he said. "They are something far away and have no part in our daily life." General Hagood said that in all southern states east of the Mississippi river there are less foreigners than in the single state of Rhode Island, and half as many as in Connecticut alone.

"I do not depreciate the value of our naturalized citizens nor their loyalty, but we of the south can truly say that we have no foreign menace; that we are satisfied with our government, and that no element of our community is attempting to substitute anything new-fangled or foreign-born."

CHRISTMAS SEALS NOW AVAILABLE FOR XMAS MAIL

Mrs. Robert Lee Thomas, of 382 Boulevard, N. E., bought the first dollars' worth of Christmas seals from the Tuberculosis association preceding the annual sale which started Wednesday, chapter officials said Wednesday night.

In harmony with the Community Chest plans, of which the Tuberculosis association is a member, there will be public solicitation on streets or in booths as was customary in former years. To meet the continued demand for seals, friends of the association will receive them through the mail, and they may also be secured at the association headquarters, 33 Cain street, N. E., it was explained.

Boy Scouts have distributed artistic posters, churches and schools and other public groups will carry the announcement of these seals on bulletin boards, and it will be possible for all who wish to decorate their Christmas cards and packages with these seals.

SECOND BAPTISTS SURPRISE PASTOR ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Dr. Carter Helm Jones, pastor of the Second Baptist church, was given a surprise birthday party Tuesday night when the executive board of the church, at its regular meeting, brought forth a birthday cake (flow with candles revealing the age of the pastor).

Following the presentation speech by R. E. Harvey, treasurer of the board, Dr. Jones was given a beautiful silver service.

MEMORIAL PLANNED TO M. LICHTENSTEIN

A memorial to the late Morris Lichtenstein will be planned at a meeting which will be held at the Ahavath Achim congregation, corner of Washington and Woodward, at 8 o'clock Thursday night, December 8.

Mr. Lichtenstein was an active worker in both civic and Jewish affairs, being vice president of the Federation of Jewish Charities and chairman of the free loan branch of the Montefiore Relief association. He also was active in the work of other Jewish organizations of the city and state, and a leader in the community chest campaigns.

NEWS RECEIVED HERE OF COTTELL'S DEATH

News of the death Monday of H. B. Cottrell, well-known agricultural expert and until recently head of the agricultural department for the Georgia Bankers' association, reached friends here Wednesday from San Benito, Texas, where Mr. Cottrell was visiting his son.

While in Atlanta, Mr. Cottrell maintained an office in the Brown building and resided with his wife in the Pickwick apartments. So far as is known, he is survived only by his widow and his son, Paul Cottrell, of San Benito, where Mrs. Cottrell will make her home in future.

COOLIDGE BACKS U. S. REGULATION OF RADIO SENDING

Washington, December 1.—(AP)—Scenario for a portrait, "Domestic Life in the White House—1926." It is evening. President Coolidge busies himself in the library with details of his work brought over from the executive office. Mrs. Coolidge sits contentedly knitting, her favorite evening pastime, and listening, incidentally, to a radio program.

This picture was disclosed yesterday when it was made known that the president is in favor of legislation to bring order into the broadcasting situation. He seldom finds time to listen to the program himself, and the chaotic condition of broadcasting doesn't touch the white house directly, since Mrs. Coolidge rarely tunes in on any except the powerful radio station in Washington. Nevertheless, the official spokesman explained, the president feels that those who are not so favorably situated and must depend more heavily on the radio for their amusement need relief from the interference which has resulted from lack of regulation.

Fulton Commission Decides To 'Go Slow' for Next Year On New Road Construction

No Reference Made to Grand Jury Recommendations for 2-Year Cessation of Road Building.

Members of the Fulton county commission, at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday, expressed their intention of going "very slow" during the remainder of this year and throughout the next in the expenditure of county funds for the construction of new road projects.

No reference was made to the recommendations of the past two Fulton county grand juries, which urged discontinuance of all new road work for a period of two years to save Fulton county from $40,000 to $50,000 annual interest on borrow money.

Numerous requests for paving, grading and widening of various streets and roads were made and on a number of occasions the commission declined to undertake the work, stating that "if the promises of the board were carried out" there was enough work already mapped out for the ensuing year. It was pointed out that there will be certain exceptions to the blanket rule in regard to repair work and the maintenance of roads already built.

Fair Street Widening.
Alderman W. B. Hartsfield and a large group of citizens of the third ward appeared before the body with a request for aid in the widening of Fair street. The citizens pointed out that the widened street would form a thoroughfare from the city to the new Columbia seminary, which is soon to be located near here, to Stone Mountain and to Inglewood. Plans are also on foot for Fair street to connect Stone Mountain and Kennesaw mountain, to be known as the Kennesaw-Stone Mountain highway, route 10. Estimate of the cost of the widening of the street has been submitted to the committee at work on the project by William Hensell, chief of construction of the city of Atlanta, in the sum of $80,000. The county was asked to provide the half of the expense, either by an appropriation of $30,000 or by furnishing labor to this amount on the project.

The request was referred to the public works committee of the commission for investigation and report at the next meeting of the board. In the meantime, plans will go forward to get the city to do its apportioned share of the movement for the widening.

Want Drive Opened.
Representatives of the P. T. A. of the O'Keefe Junior High school appealed for the opening of Techwood drive from its present terminus to Sixth street, making the school accessible to vehicular traffic from several streets. The request was also referred to the public works committee for investigation and report.

The commission was asked to take over and assume the mortgage on the Community Home for Girls, located at 318 Cooper street. The home, it was pointed out, cares for girls who have completed terms in detention homes or who are serving short terms for law violations. Approximately 87 per cent of the girls released from the home have been placed in good occupations and were returned to a Christian life, it was stated. The matter was referred to the chairman of the board and the county attorney with power to act. The question as to the legality of the commission taking over the home was raised.

The question of the extension of Hensell's Ferry road from its terminus to Power's Ferry road was referred to the public works committee with power to act.

Gift to Veterans.

An appropriation of $20 to go toward the annual Christmas fund for the Confederate veterans was voted. The original request, however, for an advertisement in the annual Christmas year book was refused and the appropriation substituted.

County Superintendent of Schools Jere A. Wells asked for the assurance of the commission that roads to be chosen by the county board of education for new schools would be constructed. The commission voted to cooperate with the board of education in the matter.

Wants Bigger Fee.

New school sites are being selected, it was pointed out, due to the fact that the communities in which the old school sites were located had grown considerably and the sites were not large enough to take care of the school buildings and necessary facilities.

Hooper Alexander, Atlanta attorney, appeared before the commission and asked for an additional sum of $1,000 as fees for assisting in the prosecution of Atlanta brokers alleged to have been operating their business concerns as "bucket shops." The attorney was originally paid a fee of $1,000 and later was given a check for $500, it was pointed out. There was no specified sum to be paid by the commission for the service, the tentative agreement merely being that he should be compensated a "reasonable fee." The matter was referred to Solicitor General John A. Boykin for report.

FORMER MARIETTA MERCHANT IS DEAD

News of the sudden death Wednesday of P. W. Camp, 60, former Marietta merchant, who was connected with the state highway department for the past few months, was received by relatives in Atlanta late Wednesday night. He dropped dead at Millen, Ga., though apparently in good health at the time, reports stated.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

IN SAYING FAREWELL TO FERNANDO CORTES, IT SEEMS FITTING TO COMMENT BRIEFLY ON HIS PERSONALITY AND OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENTS. AS WE HAVE SEEN, HE WAS A MAN OF MEDIUM HEIGHT, DEEP-CHESTED, OF SERIOUS EXPRESSION, HIS HAIR AND BEARD WERE DARK AND SCANTY. FROM BOYHOOD HE WAS TRAINED TO ARMS AND WAS AN EXPERT SWORDSMAN EQUALLY AT HOME ON HIS FEET OR IN THE SADDLE. CORTES WAS ALWAYS IN COMMAND OF HIMSELF; HIS SPEECH WAS CALM EVEN IN A CRISIS. HE WAS NEVER PROPANE AND EXHIBITED TEMPER ONLY THROUGH MOUNTING COLOR AND SWELLING VEINS OF HIS FOREHEAD.

WHEN CIRCUMSTANCES PERMITTED, HE DRESSED WITH GREAT CARE, BUT WITHOUT EXCESS OF ORNAMENT. THE MAGNETIC PERSONALITY, OVERPOWERING WILL, AND FAR-SEEING STATECRAFT OF CORTES MADE EVERY MAN SENT TO OVERTHROW OR SUCCEED HIM PLAYTHINGS IN HIS HANDS. THE STORY OF THE EVENTS OF HIS LIFE, AS TOLD IN HIS OWN LETTERS TO CHARLES V., HAS BEEN FAVORABLY COMPARED WITH THE REMARKABLE COMMENTARIES OF JULIUS CAESAR ON HIS CAMPAIGN IN GAUL.

Fernando Cortez

WHEN GAUL WAS CONQUERED BY CAESAR IT POSSESSED NO SUCH POLITICAL ORGANIZATION AS CORTES CONQUERED IN MEXICO. GAUL HAD NO SUCH CITIES AS MEXICO—TEOCHITILAN, TLASCALA, CHOLULA AND OTHERS; NOR HAD GAUL ANY SUCH MILITARY ORGANIZATION AS CORTES ENCOUNTERED IN MEXICO. MOREOVER, CAESAR LED THE ROMAN LEGIONS—THE FINEST MILITARY ORGANIZATION OF THE TIME—WHILE CORTES CAPTAINED A MOTLEY BAND OF A FEW HUNDRED ADVENTURERS.

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING, NOTED HISTORIAN

ONE HISTORIAN SAYS THAT THE DELUGE OF BLOOD IN MEXICO WAS UNNECESSARY; AND THAT THE MEXICANS WERE SO IMBUED WITH THE IDEA THAT THE SPANIARDS CAME IN FULFILLMENT OF THEIR ANCIENT PROPHECY, THAT IF CORTES HAD UNDERSTOOD THE FORCE OF THIS SUPERSTITION AND ASSUMED THE ROLE OF A DEMI-GOD, THE WHOLE AZTEC EMPIRE WOULD HAVE PASSED INTO HIS HANDS WITHOUT A STRUGGLE. THIS ARGUMENT IS NOT WITHOUT MERIT, BUT IT IS, NEVERTHELESS, PURELY SPECULATIVE.

Will Plant Tree in Honor Of Walker Regime Arbor Day

GOVERNOR CLIFFORD WALKER ATTOR. GEN. GEO. M. NAPIER.

Special ceremonies in observance of Arbor day, Friday, will be held at the state capital under the auspices of the Fifth district division of the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs and other organizations, at which time a tree will be planted on the capital grounds in honor of the administration of Governor Clifford Walker, during which the law creating the state department of forestry was passed.

Prominent club women of the Fifth district headed by Mrs. Oscar Palmour, of College Park, president of the Fifth District federation, Mrs. B. D. Gray, of College Park, and Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, of Atlanta, will take leading parts in the ceremonies. The principal address will be delivered by Attorney General George M. Napier.

Included on the program at the capital will be a concert by the Georgia Military Academy band, of College Park, and patriotic songs by a chorus of 100 Atlanta school children. Short talks will be made by Mrs. Palmour and Miss Alice Baxter, member of the state board of forestry. Bonnel H. Stone and B. M. Lufburrow, of the state forestry department, will be present at the ceremonies. Rabbi Ravil Marx will deliver the invocation.

Plant Willow Oak.
Ceremonies at which the tree in honor of Governor Walker and the Walker administration will be planted, will be held under the direction of Mrs. Price-Smith. The tree to be planted is a willow oak and will be furnished by the forestry department.

Arbor day will be observed in many parts of the state by leading women's clubs, school societies and other organizations. In Cobb county special exercises will be held at Marietta with former Governor Nat E. Harris and Preston S. Arkwright, of Atlanta, as principal orators.

It was announced at the state forestry department that notices of ceremonies to be held in many parts of the state had been received. The department has sent out recommendations that as many trees as possible be planted along the streets in cities and along main highways in the rural sections. In planting trees the organizations are urged to conform to all laws and regulations relative to tree planting on streets and highways.

History of Day.
Arbor day was first observed by the state of Nebraska in 1872. Georgia's first Arbor day was observed in 1887 although the law setting aside the first Friday in December as Arbor day was not passed until 1890.

Permanent success of Arbor day planting depends on the selection of the right species of trees, proper spacing and subsequent care of the tree, according to the department. Plans have been formed by the Fifth district division to make the cere-

November Weather Shown as Normal; Fair Skies Today

Clear skies with continued moderately cold weather is the forecast for Atlanta and vicinity today, according to C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist of the local bureau.

Wednesday's temperature range of 38 to 62 degrees marked a normal opening for the month of December, the weatherman said, adding that the mercury levels for today would be about the same, starting at about 38 degrees and reaching a maximum of 60 degrees.

Fairly normal climatic conditions were experienced throughout the month of November, which had a mean temperature of 47.2 degrees, or five degrees below normal. The total rainfall, measuring 3.75 inches, was 35 inches above normal. The month was filled with 61 per cent sunshine, the sun being visible 18 days. It rained 12 days and 12 days of the month were recorded as clear. The lowest temperature reached during the month was 25 degrees, which was 11 points above the record low of 14 degrees for November, 1914. The highest temperature of the month was 74 degrees, eight degrees below the highest November temperature reached in 1890.

No records were established during November and no unusual atmospheric conditions recorded, Mr. von Herrmann said.

WAR VETERANS HOLD GET-TOGETHER MEET

With representatives from practically every organization of war veterans present a general get-together meeting was held in Taft hall, under the auspices of the Disabled American Veterans. N. J. Hale presided at the meeting.

Among the speakers on the program were J. P. Hanson, of the Spanish War Veterans; Dr. Robert E. Dave, American Legion; R. L. Henry, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Colonel De Arce Pearce, R. O. T. C. commander at Georgia Tech; William E. Tate, liaison officer of the D. A. V., and J. K. Findler.

An interesting musical program was presented by M. J. Wagner & Sons and the Hawkins Brothers.

INSTALLMENT LXIV. A MALIGNANT FATE.

There had been no more night vigils. Dorinda's nervous condition was steadier and she was sleeping better.

Though he could not confide it to Warren, David knew the cause of her depression. The same cause lay on his own mind and heart like a substance, and he spent many of the night hours going over and over the horror of the prospect before them. Dorinda was facing a scandal and publicity which scorched her soul even in anticipation. He faced those and the loss of her as well. Already the memory of the night when he watched beside her till dawn, her hand in his, seemed like a dream. Daily he could see her receding from him, like a fade-out on the silver screen.

"I'm anxious myself to have the wretched business over," she now went on. "You've been a perfect angel, and I'm going to make the only return I can by letting you off."

Her manner was that of a maiden aunt, or, at least, that of an older sister, and David's very soul turned sick.

"I don't think we ought to discuss the matter yet," he pointed out. "You're not up to it."

"No, not quite, and we're not going to discuss it. I merely wanted you to know we'll go at it the first possible minute. I think we can start it next week. In the meantime, hadn't you better have a talk with Mr. Hatch and put the whole thing before him? He may want to think it over a few days before he advises us. It's a job that will take some thinking about," she ended, grimly.

"You want to consult your wife before deciding?"

He nodded. The sooner the better for him. He was desperately anxious now to have the episode over.

"Of course you're right," he agreed. "I'll have a preliminary pow-wow with Hatch and give him the bald facts. Then, I think, we ought to have him come here to dinner, say Friday or Saturday evening, where we can both talk to him and he to us."

"That will be best," she acquiesced.

"He can think things over on Sunday and perhaps come again on Monday night. Hatch can do more thinking in one day if he puts his mind to it, than most men could do in a week," said the new and ardent disciple of Hatch.

She gave him a strange look.

"You're anxious to get away, aren't you?" she asked.

He hesitated. "I think we feel alike about that," he said at last. "Since the beastly job has to be put through the right thing is to rush at it and do it. The sooner we start the sooner we'll finish. And, of course, when we have started," he ended—for this was as good a time as any to make the point—"I will move back to Mrs. Kemp's. After that it won't be necessary for us to meet."

"Do whatever you think is right," she wearily agreed. "I'm sure you will find the best way."

David did not share her confidence, but two days later chance gave him a forward push. Kimball, described to Dorinda by him as the one hard working member of the firm, had long been weary of his position as draught horse. In a moment of natural irritation he said as much to Hatch; in fact, he pained Hatch by a characteristically bomblike explosion on the subject of his wrongs. In the course of a somewhat prolonged process of calming him Hatch had an inspiration, which a little later Fuller was invited to the conference to approve. After that the junior partners went back to their respective offices and Hatch sent for Goddard.

The young man responded with a pounding heart. Here, probably, was his opportunity, to be grasped after what he assumed would be the receipt of some casual instructions on office business. He would see what mood Hatch was in—something depended on that—and if the time seemed opportune he would speak.

Hatch's mood, he discovered when he entered the senior partner's office, was as mellow as an autumn day. There was a hint of sadness in it, for Hatch had eaten a large luncheon and his stomach was reminding him that it was no longer quite as young as it had been—but that was a detail. He pushed a chair toward his clerk, a rare attention, and motioned toward an open box of cigars on his desk. David selected a cigar with a smile of acknowledgement. Something was coming, and this was a time for watchful waiting. Hatch took out his own half-smoked cigar and looked at the blazing end of it, feeling rather pleased with himself. It was going to be a big moment for the youngster and Hatch was human enough to enjoy being the god in another's machine.

"It's this spring you expect to pass your bar examination, isn't it?" he asked, casually.

"Yes, sir." The candidate's vivid blue eyes fixed themselves unwinkingly on the other's face.

"Have you any plans?" Hatch asked, restoring his cigar to his mouth and leaning back in his big swivel chair with the air of one prepared to hear all about them if he had.

"No new ones," the young man admitted. "I hoped from your remarks at the time of my various loans that you would want me to stay on here for another year or so—till I had paid them off, anyway."

Hatch made a gesture that eliminated the sordid topic of loans.

"We have a better idea than that," he said. "Kimball was in here a little while ago, feeling abused. He thinks he's overworked, and perhaps he is. I know I am," Hatch lightly mentioned in passing. "We need some young blood in this office—Kimball has spoken of that several times—and we all think that if you would like a small partnership in the firm—"

Hatch paused significantly. He expected that the young fellow would be rather overwhelmed. The young fellow was, but he sat in a stunned and wretched silence. Surely a malignant fate had exhausted itself in this latest manifestation. To have his heart's desire flung at him in this fashion, when he could not possibly take it, might have been the turn of the screw if the screw had not already made its final revolution. Hatch decided that he understood. The boy was a bit dazed, of course, and thinking about the financial end of the proposition. We assume that you wouldn't have much capital, if any," he went on kindly; "but that can be arranged, you know, like the matter of the loan."

"It isn't capital alone," David found his voice. "And I won't try to tell you, sir, how grateful I am for the opportunity. I shall never forget it. But—"

"You want to consult your wife before deciding? Quite right, of course," Hatch agreed, but with the expression of one who discovers a pin prick in his balloon.

"Yes, sir." David decided to leave it there. When Hatch had heard what he had to say there wouldn't be any more talk about junior partnerships.

THE AIR WAVES.

BY WILL H. SMITH

The weather man has made good on his promises for the week. At least, that is the way the Dial Twister felt last night as he wheeled his good old Stewardine out into the open and began his evening's journey round the Dials. As far as the weather was concerned reception could not have been better.

There were two bugs to worry the dial twister last night, however, both of which can be corrected if all the fans would get together and demand their rights. The first place, the Dial Twister will agree with "Dust-fan" who wrote in last week about WEAF string not announcing numbers or call letters.

The Davis Saxophone octette, an admirable organization, and one that can make those reed instruments do the very latest stunts connected with them from a number of stations in the WEAF string. The program was good but announcing of call letters and far between. This outfit, after reminding us to see our grocer and tell him what we thought of the program, almost forgot to announce his call letters and it was not until WRAL, at Cincinnati, came on at the close of the program, were we able to place them where they belonged.

Wants Call Letters.

If fans would insist on a little more liberal sprinkling of call letters in a program of this nature the fault could be corrected. Instead of the numbers, this method incites them to rebellion.

The second complaint the Dial Twister has to register is in regard to the increasing lethargy of many stations on the air available wave bands. It is up to every radio listener to get busy and register his complaint with his congressional representative. If action is taken immediately corrective legislation can be passed at this session of congress and some of the chaos now prevailing in the ether will be a thing of the past. Last night's sample of reception was heartily discouraging.

The Stewardine, Berry Cochran, of the Cochran Electric Co., has been out for us to use, is a mighty selective receiver and one we are perfectly willing to stack up against the sets now on the market. But it cannot do it all. We have heard a score or more of receivers and they all experience the same difficulty, stations are hard to sort out when they are crammed into a few wave bands as tightly as the proverbial sardine in the can.

Marvelous Program.

By working on our congressional representatives it will be possible to alleviate some of the interference we all are subjected to. With such receptive conditions as seem to prevail this winter we should be able to get the maximum amount of entertainment from our investment in radio.

That's that.

We heard a marvelous program from WJDKA, at East Pittsburgh, during the dinner hour. The Westinghouse Employee's band put on the entire hour's program. Later in the evening, during the studio hour, we heard a clever radio woman, who warbled her interpretation of "Annie Laurie."

WOK, the Newtrowood station at Honesdale, Pa., also put on a program of excellent orchestra. We heard Goltette's Victor recording orchestra from WJR, at Detroit. They played "Deep River" for a request reaching Detroit from New Orleans.

However, we got the greatest enjoyment of the evening listening to Jimmy Higdon, the bongo king, swinging his way through the program on WJAX, at Jacksonville, Fla. We always like to hear Jimmy play his banjos, once at a time.

Queen Marie Speeds Home To Fight for Regency

PRINCE CAROL IS LEFT BEHIND IN PARIS

Paris, December 1.—Determined that no one shall replace her as the most dominant personality in the royal court and facing a possible battle for a place on the regency council, the queen, Marie, has left Paris for Rome.

Carol Caraimann, her son who was crowned prince, remains in Paris, officially at least unrecognized by his mother, and equally determined that he will yield none of his royal prerogatives should he return to Bucharest.

While Marie waited to learn of a possible meeting between queen and former rival, Carol made haste to deny statements made by a minister of the queen Tuesday and quoting "the exiled prince as pledging himself against a coup d'état."

Meeting Is Reported.
Just before she went to the station Queen Marie made a mysterious visit to the Rue Varone and it was believed by some that she had met former Crown Prince Carol there.

Reporters cutting the queen were told that "Carol and the queen have just left." Except for this there was no confirmation that they had met.

When Queen Marie, Prince Nicholas, Princess Ileana and the royal Rumanian entourage departed on the Simplon Orient express at 8:50 o'clock.
